

Canada At War

A Review of Developments on the Home Front

Steps toward meeting what Finance Minister Ilsley described as "A GRAVE EMERGENCY" in coal production were taken last week in the appointment of a THREE-MAN BOARD with wide powers to step-up production of Canadian coal mines. Announcing the appointment of the board, Mr. Ilsley said the 1943 outlook pointed to a coal shortage of about 8,000,000 tons. Coal Administrator J. McG. STEWART, of the Prices Board, is chairman of the new Emergency Coal Production Board, and the other members are Charles Payne, secretary of local 2665 of the United Mine Workers of America, Mount Park, Alta., and Graham Towers, Governor of the Bank of Canada. In general terms, Mr. Ilsley said the principal objective of the board is to "STIMULATE INCREASED COAL PRODUCTION" by all available means with a view to reversing the downward trend in output and establishing new highs in Canadian production. Specifically the board has power to:

1. Open new mines and re-open closed mines.
2. Close inefficient mines where labor can be transferred to more efficient operations.
3. Suspend rules or regulations respecting employment in mines which may hamper production.
4. Direct the production policy of mines.
5. Provide financial assistance when mines are financially unable to continue in maximum production.

There is NO MORE BRASS for buttons, and Canadian soldiers, who never were particularly fond of polishing, are waiting for PLASTIC BUTTONS to make their appearance. That will probably happen as soon as stocks of brass buttons now on hand have been depleted—and they are going fast. Certain naval ratings, such as ship's writers, cooks and supply assistants have been using plastic buttons for some time. It's expected the Air Force and the women's services will also adopt them for GENERAL USE. Officers are likely to continue to have a choice of gold or silver buttons, in place of plastic ones, but only at their own expense. Because of the high moulding power of plastics, COUNTLESS DESIGNS can be achieved. The buttons are hard and their color remains fast in repeated washings or dry cleanings. The possible scarcity of chemicals will probably curtail production for civilian needs in order to inspire an UNINTERRUPTED SUPPLY for war purposes. At present there are some four companies in Canada which manufacture plastic buttons, although none of these plants confine their production to plastic buttons alone. There are several smaller companies which are manufacturing this item on a more modest scale.

The second test of HARD HEMATITE IRON ORE from Steep Rock Iron Mines has shown successful results at the plants of Republic Steel Co., according to observers, who say this ore might possibly prove a solution to the current SCRAP IRON SHORTAGE. Four tons of ore from Ontario's Steep Rock Lake, averaging from 61 per cent to more than 65 per cent iron, were used in the test. SCARCITY OF SCRAP makes it imperative to use an ore hard in structure and low in impurities for direct charging into the open hearths. The Steep Rock ore lies at the bottom of a lake 130 miles west of Fort William, Ont., and 100 MILLION TONS of ore is indicated. In the first test of the Steep Rock ores, 15 tons were processed by Republic and shipped to Canada for fabrication into ANTI-AIRCRAFT SHELLS. Ore from the North American iron fields can be converted into "finish ore" only by one of three processes, each requiring shipping facilities, time and men, but HARD STRUCTURE ORE of the Steep Rock type is of pure enough composition to serve without preliminary processing.

The discovery of a new CHEMICAL FIRE RETARDANT known as "CM" has put into the hands of man another potent weapon to keep fire, his most valued but least trusted servant, in check. CLOTHING OF ALL KINDS, from little girls' frilly party frocks to arc welders' overalls and military uniforms may be made fire resistant by DIPPING OR SPRAYING them with the chemical so that, though they may char upon contact with fire, they will not burst into flame. Moreover, this chemical newcomer DOES NOT AFFECT THE "FEEL" or appearance of fabrics and it would take an expert to distinguish between treated and untreated materials. The most IMMEDIATE USE of this fire retardant material will be in the treatment of soldiers', sailors' and airmen's uniforms, and of textiles for war machines, such as tank linings.

Until about a year ago, Canada had never manufactured commercially ONE POUND OF OPTICAL GLASS, not even the kind used for lenses of spectacles, which is actually second grade compared with the brand used in making range finders and other delicate instruments of warfare. Modern war requires countless mechanical eyes—periscopes for submarines and tanks, telescopic sights and range finders for rifles and big guns, field glasses and periscopes for soldiers. Thus the demand for optical goods soared high. Canada was faced with a TWIN PROBLEM. We needed far more optical goods than ever before and we were cut off from all but two of the main sources of this equipment. Great Britain, one of them, was very busy filling her own needs, and the expanding armament output of the United States, the other source, gave that country's optical plants all the work they could handle. To get around this BOTTLENECK OF SUPPLY, Canada decided to manufacture its own optical goods. Today this is being done on a large scale by several hundred men and women in a big modern factory on the outskirts of Toronto. The foundation for this development was laid in the laboratories of the NATIONAL RESEARCH COUNCIL in Ottawa. The optical glass is made of silica mixed with chemicals and melted by terrific heat until it runs like water. The slightest bit of foreign material will spoil a whole batch of glass.

Several million dollars a year are being saved in Canada in the manufacture of military explosives through the USE OF WOOD PULP as a source of cellulose instead of cotton linters. WOOD CELLULOSE has been used in Canada for a good many years in cellophane and rayon, but it is only since the beginning of the war that research and development adapted wood pulp to the MANUFACTURE OF NITROCELLULOSE, the base for certain types of high explosives. The use of cellulose-bearing wood pulps has eliminated the IMPORTATION OF COTTON LINTERS. Canada is one of the first of the United Nations to adopt large scale production of military explosives from her own domestic supplies of chemical wood pulps.

Peach, Hyslop And Bartlett Pools Show Increase In Prices

This Year's Pool Returns Are Generally Substantially Better Than Those of 1941—Will Be Several Days Before Growers Commence Receiving Cheques From Packers—While Packing Charges May Be A Little Greater, Increase in Prices Will Mean Greater Return For Grower

DURING the past week the peach, Bartlett pear and Hyslop crab pools have been closed; B.C. Tree Fruits announce, although it will probably be several days before the growers receive their cheque from the shippers. In all cases the pool prices show a definite increase over those of last year and growers generally should receive substantially higher returns. A few figures give the general trend: Fancy Hyslops, this year's pool price is $1.02, while last year it was .85 cents; Fancy Bartletts, large, this year brought $2.30, while last year the pool price was $1.85; No. 1 large Rochester peaches this year were 92 cents, while last year the pool price was 84 cents. The amount of cash involved in the closing of the three pools is $1,257,070.62. This amount represents $26,100 from the peach pool, $330,266.46 from the Bartlett pool, and $100,704.61 from the Hyslop pool. These amounts include the packing charges which will be deducted before the grower receives his cheque.

The pool price represents the amount forwarded to the packing houses by B.C. Tree Fruits. Packing charges must be deducted before remittance is made to the grower. While, possibly, there may be some increase in packing costs this year, the greater portion of the increased price received this year will eventually reach the grower. The Bartlett pear pool prices this year are: fancy, 180s and larger, $2.30; 180s, $2.05; Cees, 165s and larger, $2.05; 180s, $1.90; 193s, $1.65. Cee F and J orchard run, $1.53; Cee F and J, $1.03. Camery, $2.54 per ton. The 1941 pool price for fancy large was $1.85 and for cee large was $1.45. In the season pool Hyslop crabs brought $1.02 per ton for fancy and $0.88 cents for cee grade, while the camery price was $45.37. The 1941 pool price for fancy large was .85 cents and for cee grade .76 cents.

Prices of the Clingstone season pool were 87 cents for number ones and 76 cents for number twos. These prices compared with the .71 cents for number ones and 55 cents for number twos in the 1941 pool. The Freestone season pool resulted in 89235 cents being paid for number ones and 89235 for number twos with 89235 also being paid for the hauled grade, and $45.82 per ton for jam. Rochester, the "Three Vs" and Elbertas in the season pool returned 92518 cents for number one large and 82519 cents for the small. Number two hauled grade price was $378. Turn to Page 12, Story 5.

CROWDED FOR SPACE
Owing to limitations of space The Courier regrets that it is unable to carry a story on the early development of Kelowna Saw Mill Co. Ltd. by David Lloyd-Jones, the founder, which was scheduled for this issue. Last minute advertising has made space prohibitive and the article will be run next week. Many other news stories also had to be omitted.

Inspector Moodie And Associate Instructors Conduct Valuable Three Day A.R.P. School Here

Mayor G. A. McKay Opens Proceedings—Inspector Moodie Stresses Need For Efficient A.R.P. Groups—Inspector Bass Outlines Organization Practice—Capt. Leven Describes Incendiary Bombs—Film Showing

THE opening classes held in Kelowna's Elementary School auditorium for the instruction of the local A.R.P. personnel commenced on Thursday evening and continued until Saturday night. Lecturers who spoke each evening were Inspector S. F. M. Moodie, of the B.C. Police, Cpl. D. W. Taylor, Capt. E. D. W. Leven, A.R.P. controller from Saanich, and F. C. Bass, senior A.R.P. instructor from Vancouver. Accompanying the A.R.P. instructors was Miss Ann Munkley, who acted as secretary.

Introductory remarks at the commencement of the sessions were made by Mayor G. A. McKay, who introduced the first speaker, Inspector Moodie. The Mayor outlined the plan to be followed by the lectures and asked for the fullest co-operation of those attending the course. In regard to the work that must be done by the A.R.P., Inspector Moodie pointed out that the people of British Columbia are very fortunate in having St. John's Ambulance groups, Red Cross groups and the St. John's Brigade Corps. He stated that many citizens have received a considerable amount of instruction from these organizations, basically similar to the training given in A.R.P. classes. Outlining further the work done by the A.R.P., Inspector Moodie said that the effort must not be merely a local one but one that was nation-wide. He emphasized that this field of work is comparatively new and that until recently we were ignorant of this type of protection. Britain began to study protective methods as early as 1935, and the first A.R.P. material was published and distributed with the utmost secrecy, so that the enemy would not be provoked by thinking that preparations were being made for war. In this war, the civilian A.R.P. is a civilian matter entirely separate from the military effort, and can be carried out through a regularly constituted method. The speaker pointed out to the class that, although Kelowna has not yet been declared a vulnerable area, it may be so pronounced at any time. This is a total war, and the effort put out by the people must be total, services must be used to the greatest possible advantage, and there is a place for every man and woman in the defence of the country. "How do you know nothing will ever happen?" was the challenge posed by Inspector Moodie, who declared that it is the duty of every citizen to organize A.R.P. services, and that all precautionary groups should work in co-ordination, because all services are necessary. A definition given of the A.R.P. was: "A.R.P. is the protection of civilians, for civilians, by civilians." Turn to Page 12, Story 4.

SLABWOOD SHORTAGE SERIOUS

Simpson's Forced to Restrict Sales—Reserve Stock is Depleted

SEEK CO-OPERATION
Has Been Run During Past Few Days—Only Needy Can Purchase

A shortage of slabwood in this area looms as a probability due to the rapid depletion of existing stocks in recent weeks. On Tuesday morning S. M. Simpson informed Mayor G. A. McKay that the slabwood stocks of his companies were now more than eleven thousand and six hundred were available at this time last year. So rapidly has the situation developed in recent days and to such a serious degree, that S. M. Simpson Ltd., in an advertisement in this issue announced that the company's drivers and its trucks will be used to deliver slabwood to only those persons who need it, and the Simpson trucking equipment will be used to deliver it. "Some drastic step had to be taken or we would be entirely sold out this week," T. Greenwood, of the Simpson company, stated. Mr. Greenwood explained that all the company's drivers and its trucks will be used to deliver a load of slabwood to some home and on arrival there find the home had an adequate supply for the moment, the driver would return to the yard with the wood he was to have delivered. In its advertisement the S. M. Simpson company asks that no person with an adequate supply for the moment orders slabwood. It is hoped that, with the general co-operation of the public and the company's own rationing scheme, the present apparent shortage may be overcome.

In recent weeks many farmers have loaded up their trucks at the yard, and it is known that many households have purchased at least two years' supply. This is shown by the fact that already this year 40,000 ricks have been sold, whereas in the normal year it is about 20,000. Turn to Page 7, Story 6.

SAW MILL CONTROL IS CHANGED

S. M. Simpson Ltd. Purchases Control of Kelowna Saw Mills Co., Ltd.

NO POLICY CHANGE
Every Endeavor Will Be Made to Continue Kelowna Saw Mills' Service to Community

S. M. Simpson, of S. M. Simpson Ltd., announced this week that his company had acquired control of the Kelowna Saw-Mill Co., Ltd. and would continue to operate that organization as a separate unit but in conjunction with the Simpson operations in order that duplication might be avoided and that all available manpower would be put to the greatest possible use. "It is our intention and our hope," Mr. Simpson stated, "that the two companies will continue to serve this district to the best of their ability and give as good service as they have in the past. We will endeavor to avoid duplication and to conserve manpower but, at the same time, we will take care that the needs of the district will be served as adequately by the two companies as they were during the period when the two companies were not under joint control." While T. Greenwood, of S. M. Simpson Ltd., will act as general manager of the Kelowna Saw-Mill Co., there will be little, if any, change in the personnel of that company. D. Lloyd-Jones is retiring, but W. Lloyd-Jones will continue to act as secretary-treasurer of the company. Contrary to reports that have been current on the street, no company is interested in the new company. Mr. Simpson has stated that it was his desire to keep the local business a Kelowna business as far as possible, and no outside capital is interested.

While definite plans have not been made, Mr. Simpson intimated that it may possibly develop that the Kelowna Saw-Mill Co. will eventually handle practically all local retail business, while the S. M. Simpson company will handle the bulk of the business. Turn to Page 7, Story 7.

BCFGA To Bring In Temporary Japanese Labor For Orchards

Agreement With B.C. Security Commission is Substantially Same as Basis Approved Last Year by Okanagan and Mainline Security Committee—Will Be Brought Into Okanagan From Interior Settlements Under R.C.M.P. Supervision—Growers Will Arrange Transportation, Adequate Housing And Pay Going Rate of Wage—B.C.F.G.A. Locals Will Decide Extent of Use in Each Local's Area—B.C.F.G.A. President Emphasizes That The Japanese Will Be Brought Into Okanagan Only During The Period of Labor Shortage And Returned to Settlements at End of Harvest

Not Here For Duration
An agreement to secure Japanese labor on a temporary basis and on a basis substantially the same as that approved last May by the Okanagan and Mainline Security Committee, was entered into on Saturday by G. DesBrisay, B.C.F.G.A. President, G. A. Barrat, chairman of the B.C.F.G.A. Alien Labor Committee, and A. K. Loyd, who made the arrangements with Austin Taylor, chairman of the B.C. Security Commission during an interview in Vancouver. The agreement calls for Japanese to be brought in as required from the Commission's Interior housing projects, the provision of adequate housing by growers, the payment of transportation costs by the growers, the payment of the going rate of wage by the growers and general supervision by the Mounted Police.

This agreement is the same agreement used in the northern section of the Valley this year and the basis on which several permits were issued by the Okanagan and Mainline Security Committee to Glenmore and several of the large growers in the north.

Last May the Committee passed a resolution which agreed to admit Japanese males for harvest help under adequate supervision. The delegate interviewed Mr. Taylor for the expressed purpose of getting some guarantee from Ottawa that any Japanese who had or might come into the Okanagan after December 7th, 1941, would be removed within six months of the conclusion of hostilities. During the interview it developed that any agreement made by the Dominion for removal after the close of hostilities could only be made between the Dominion and the Province, not between the Dominion and any municipality or district within the province. The B.C. Security Commission, however, has power under the War Measures Act, during the war, to move aliens from one point to another, hence it is able to make the arrangement eventually agreed upon by Mr. Taylor and the B.C.F.G.A. representatives.

In outlining the progress of the B.C.F.G.A. committee on Wednesday afternoon, Mr. DesBrisay emphasized that the Japanese would be brought in solely during the necessary labor period and would be removed to their interior settlements directly their work here is completed. Whether or not Japanese will be used in any district is a matter of "Local option." Every B.C.F.G.A. Local will be required to state immediately whether or not it will use Japanese and if so, how many. It will also be asked to state whether or not it will use families. The majority of growers in each Local will formulate the policy to be followed in that particular district in that regard. As announced last week the B.C. F.G.A. had formed an "Alien Labor" committee with G. A. Barrat as chairman, T. E. A. Pritchard, of Penticton, and W. T. Cameron, of Vernon, as executive members, and J. R. J. Stirling as secretary. The Okanagan was divided into three zones, with zone committees composed of E. A. Titchmarsh, J. Y. Towgood and G. A. Lundy in the south, G. A. Barrat, J. R. J. Stirling and L. A. Baldoock in the central, and J. P. Red and Gun Club, and C. M. Watson in the northern zone. The B.C.F.G.A. president's manifesto stated that it was the duty of the committee to co-operate where possible with the Okanagan and Mainline Security Committee, but where this was not possible to

GLENMORE REEVE IS DOUBTFUL
G. Moubay Does Not Choose to Run—Councilors Stand Again

Glenmore nominations close on Monday next, December 14, and there are indications that there may be some difficulty about filling the Reeveship. G. A. Moubay, who has served the municipality as Reeve for the past four years, has definitely indicated that he desires to retire, but pressure is being brought to bear to induce him to reconsider his decision. On Wednesday, he was undecided. The Glenmore councillors whose terms are expiring are W. Robert Hicks and Charles Henderson, both of whom, it is expected, will stand again. There is no indication of other candidates entering the field. The Glenmore school trustees whose term of office expires are Charles Henderson, George V. Martin and J. P. Red and Gun Club. Martin has filed his papers and it is expected that the other two will do likewise. Should an election be necessary, the poll will take place on Saturday, December 19. Turn to Page 12, Story 3.

Capacity Crowd Attends Hunting Club's Game Dinner

Two Hundred Dollars for Spitfire Fund—Eleven Valuable Prizes Distributed

Jammed to capacity, the I.O.O.F. Hall on Thursday night was the scene of the annual game dinner of the Kelowna Rod and Gun Club, which this year augmented the Sportsmen's Spitfire Fund by $220. Many more dinner tickets could have been sold and several days before the event was to take place the sold-out sign was hung out. Two hundred and fifty guests were served, in addition to a number of caterers. While Inspector S. F. M. Moodie, of the Provincial A.R.P. organization, Gordon Toombs, President of the Penticton Rod and Gun Club, and E. P. MacLenn, editor of The Kelowna Courier, all spoke briefly, the main portion of the program was devoted to colored films shown by Rev. A. R. Lett, of Oryana, who until recently was headmaster of St. George's School at Lytton, the Indian school of the Church of England. Mr. Lett's films centred around the school and the work among the Indian children and, in addition to

F.O. Fred Waterman Awarded Distinguished Flying Cross; Was Member Of Courier Staff

Was In Kelowna About Three Years—Was Active Member Of Kelowna Ski Club—Was Awarded Honor For "Showing Sense of Duty Which Has Been An Inspiration"—Piloted Bomber Over Objectives At Tobruk When Engine Trouble Developed—Landed Behind Enemy Lines—Son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Waterman, of Princeton

FLYING Officer Frederick Waterman, who left the staff of The Courier in September, 1940, to join the Royal Canadian Air Force, has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross, according to an announcement made in London last week-end. Waterman was well-known in Kelowna, having been with The Courier for three years, and had taken an active part in the Kelowna Ski Club.

Waterman was cited for a bombing incident at Tobruk last August, when his aircraft developed engine trouble so that "evasive action was almost impossible." However, the citation said, "with great determination he proceeded to the target. Despite difficulties of heavy gunfire and a concentration of searchlights, Waterman with a perfect calmness released his bombs along the jetties at Tobruk." The citation adds: "Waterman at all times has shown a sense of duty which has been an inspiration to his colleagues."

It was in the depression years that Waterman walked one day into The Courier office and wanted a job. There was no job available, but Waterman was determined and finally he was told to hang around and see if he could make himself as useful as he said he could. He did and soon became a valued member of the staff.

Waterman was all those things which make a good employee. He was conscientious; he was enthusiastic; he was always willing; he was loyal; he was a tireless worker and he had a desire to assist. Waterman had all the qualifications needed for a good flyer and so it was inevitable that he would quickly join the R.C.A.F. as soon as they would take him. He left Kelowna the end of August, 1940.

Those who knew "Freddie" well had quite a chuckle when they heard of his Tobruk exploit. A letter written long before he had any idea that he was being cited for outstanding action. The letter, in fact, was written from Palestine, where he was on leave immediately after the action.

Fred is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Waterman, of Princeton. He took his senior matric in Princeton and worked his way through a year two of the science course at the University of Washington.

In a letter several weeks ago to The Courier, Waterman tells the story of his desert escape but little mention of the phase of it which was instrumental in his winning the R.A.F.'s high decoration.

He wrote: "Out on a job about a month ago, one of our motors decided to 'pack up' for the night, but we managed to get on, do our stuff and get safely (I) headed for home. But after struggling along, losing height, but gradually, on the one motor, the other one sympathetically decided it wouldn't carry on either, and we decided to keep the aircraft in the air long enough to cross the Jerry lines. "We were at parachute stations, ready to go out, and when the remaining motor caught fire there was no time to be lost. "With one hand on the rip cord, I gazed for a moment through the escape hatch into blackness, then jumped out head-first. I counted five (but fast!) in the approved manner and pulled. There was a rush of silk and a jerk, and I was right side up floating down peacefully, with the sound and the swish-swish of air through the silk. "As it was dark, I couldn't see the ground coming up, so was not prepared when I hit with a hell of a bump on the (I believe) only pile of rocks in the Western Desert. I thought every bone was broken and felt myself all over, but no, nary a fracture. I gathered myself together, cut a piece from my parachute to take along for protection from the sun, slung on my water bottle and revolver, and set off in the required direction, using a pocket compass. "I could see tents and dispersed trucks and tanks, but steered clear Turn to Page 6, Story 9.

B.C.F.G.A. Jap Policy

On Tuesday The Courier was given to understand that officials representing the B.C.F.G.A. interviewed Austin Taylor, chairman of the B.C. Security Commission, on Saturday, sought and obtained an agreement substantially the same as that which operated throughout the Okanagan—and particularly in the north—during the harvest season just passed.

The agreement calls for Japanese labor from "settlement towns" to be brought into the Okanagan for the work period and returned immediately upon the conclusion of the work; all movement is to be under supervision of the Mounted Police and, as the work is of a temporary nature, the growers are to provide transportation costs; growers, of course, are to provide adequate housing and pay the going rate of wage.

On the surface this is substantially the same type of agreement which the Okanagan and Mainline Security Committee approved last May, and the same type of agreement around which the Committee issued permits to Glenmore and several large growers in the northern sections of the Valley last August and September. It is, in short, the same type of agreement which, it has always been admitted, would be quite satisfactory to the people of this Valley, in view of the labor shortage.

The agreement, however, is vastly different from that which the B.C.F.G.A. President's statement last week led the people of this Valley to expect. That statement left the impression that the B.C.F.G.A., come hell or high water, was out to have Japanese, males, families or what-have-you, settled in the Okanagan permanently and for the duration. The statement made last week by the B.C.F.G.A. President caused more-than-a-little comment, as it was generally felt it could result in nothing more than a clear split on policy between the rural and urban areas of the Valley.

On more than one occasion in recent years the B.C.F.G.A. has kept a veil closely drawn over its activities, and this would seem to be another case in point. If the B.C.F.G.A. Alien Labor Committee was formed for the sole purpose of obtaining such an agreement as outlined above, a statement to that effect should have been made last week. To refrain from making such a statement was a distinct disservice to the Valley as it permitted dissension and hard feeling to run rampant for a week. If, on the other hand, the B.C.F.G.A. Committee was formed for the purpose which the President's manifesto seemed to indicate, why the change in policy?

One of the six points of the B.C.F.G.A. statement issued last week was the attempt to secure an agreement with Ottawa similar to Ottawa's agreement with several provinces. It is known that the B.C. Security Commission has no power to enter into any agreement of that nature. It is known, also, that the Dominion Government can only make such an agreement with the provinces. It is known, too, that the "guarantee" given the North Okanagan Committee, that the Japanese settled there for the duration would be moved out after the war, is of no use, as the B.C. Security Commission has no power to make such an agreement. Could it be that the B.C.F.G.A. representatives were only finally convinced of this fact on Saturday by the B.C. Security Commission, and hastily changed their plans? There was no answer to these questions Wednesday noon, as the B.C.F.G.A. President refused to answer any questions.

One point in the agreement between the B.C. F.G.A. and the Security Commission needs clarification—does "alien labor" mean Japanese males, females or families? From the statement issued a week ago, one is forced to the conclusion that the interpretation of this phrase is to be left entirely to the majority of growers in the individual B.C.F.G.A. Locals. For instance, should Glenmore want only males while Rutland wanted families, the phrase would be so interpreted in the two communities. Does the B.C.F.G.A. Committee really think that such a policy can really work? If the majority of the Glenmore growers do not want families, while the majority of the Rutland growers do, how can the B.C.F.G.A. Committee prevent a determined Glenmore grower from employing families, if he so desires?

One of the clauses of the B.C.F.G.A. statement last week was that the municipalities were to be asked to appoint representatives on the B.C.F.G.A. committee. This as yet has not been done, despite the fact that the committee has been formed, a policy developed and an agreement made with the B.C. Security Commission. If it has been the intention of the B.C.F.G.A. to carry on along the lines of the agreement—approved six months ago by all municipalities in the Valley through the Okanagan Security Committee—why the delay in asking the municipalities to sit in on the scheme? A week ago, before it had learned of the B.C.F.G.A. plan, The Courier suggested editorially that the municipal councils and the B.C.F.G.A. together, form a new committee and make a fresh approach to the whole Japanese problem. The B.C.F.G.A. had a wonderful opportunity of taking the leadership and uniting the whole Valley in one common policy, but it has—or almost has—muffed its opportunity.

However, if the B.C.F.G.A. plan calls only for the importation of Japanese into the Okanagan for the thinning and harvest periods and their removal thereafter, The Courier believes that the plan will find general acceptance throughout the Okanagan, as this was essentially the policy agreed upon last May. As long as Japanese are not brought in for the duration, and as long as families do not enter the picture, there will be little active opposition to the scheme. The difficult thing to understand is why the B.C.F.G.A. officials, who were fully acquainted with the Okanagan Security Committee's resolution, pursued such hush-hush policies and went to all the trouble of setting up the "B.C.F.G.A. Alien Labor Committee" to carry out a policy which had been approved by the representatives of all municipalities and organizations in the Valley many months ago.

Price Ceiling Support

Tendency to criticize price reductions in tea, coffee, oranges and milk, because the total monthly saving to the average consumer in Canada is comparatively small, is to miss the point, and critics are in the position of not being able to see the wood for the trees.

The basic idea behind the move is support for the price ceiling which is threatening to collapse through economic pressure. Shortage of manpower and shipping has brought a scarcity of these basic products in Canada's diet and demand is intensified through a tremendous increase in public buying power.

This increased consumer demand brings ever-intensified pressure on price ceiling restrictions and Donald Gordon is hard put to hold fast against constant demands for price increases. Producers and distributors know that a large percentage of the buying public are able and willing to pay more for what they want and can't see why they are not allowed to ask more money for their products.

These people fail to appreciate the danger in price advances which threaten the foundation of our national price fixing scheme. The administrator has insisted that general raising of prices will not be allowed, although the Wartime Prices and Trade Board are swamped with demands that innumerable exceptions to the rule be made. To grant one is to grant all and the total increases asked would destroy the whole framework of the price ceiling set-up.

It has become obvious that shortage of manpower has increased the production cost of farm products. Vegetables do not come under the price ceiling regulations but milk producers are hard hit. In the light of this situation the Board is taking the obviously wise course of bonusing the milk farmers so that, although users will pay less, the farmers' margin of profit will be maintained.

The move is probably only the first of a series of bonus payments to manufacturers and producers in Canada. As wage increases are granted and production costs rise, Ottawa will probably find it necessary to subsidize Canadian business which demands that the profit margin be maintained and sees price increases as the simplest solution.

The move to reduce the price of oranges through cancellation of duties is the first step toward an abandonment of tariff barriers between the United States and Canada. This action also presages further action along this line to ease the strain on the price ceiling in regard to imported products.

Ottawa, faced with the assurance that further increases in the cost-of-living bonus were inevitable unless drastic action was taken, has made the first move to retard a slow but apparently irresistible rise in the cost of living. Bonus payments may not be the whole solution to the puzzle but at least they are a step in the right direction.

Selective Service

Decision of President Roosevelt to ban voluntary enlistments in the United States is based on the sound principle that the right man should be put in his right place. So long as thousands of men are allowed to enter any branch of the service that appeals to them, there are bound to be a lot of square pegs in round holes. Manpower for both the services and industry should be selected on the basis of aptitude and experience, and many a man is of more service to his country in some technical position than behind a gun.

This move to streamline manpower needs points out the fallacy in Canada's present system of voluntary enlistments and gives an answer to the problem of labor shortage in certain branches of essential industries.

A large majority of the men being called for service in Canada through the draft hurry to volunteer in the service of their choice before receiving their call notices. The Government apparently is pleased at the way in which voluntary enlistment is keeping up but should realize that there is a large element of compulsion behind the volunteers and that many men who rush to "beat the draft" would serve a more useful purpose as technicians or in other special lines of endeavor. There is a natural inclination among those enlisting to join a combatant unit, but a chartered accountant, for instance, is wasted in an anti-aircraft unit, and a scientist may make a good pilot but could serve his country better in research work.

The crying need in Canada today is an intelligent use of our selective service machinery co-ordinated with compulsory service. Only in this way can we avoid a misuse of trained manpower and be sure that the right men are behind the man behind the gun.

Rumor

The American Office of War Information has issued some simple rules in regard to rumors and rumormongers. Everyone can help to win the war by toughening his mind and ears. Everyone can help to win the war by refusing to believe or repeat sensational stories which are not carried in newspapers or over the radio. Everyone can fight the enemy by refusing to spread suspicion or unfounded rumor.

The Importance of Air Raid Precautions

By WALTER R. LEGGE

(Another in a series of articles written by W. R. Legge and C. V. Charters, who represented the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association in a recent tour overseas.)

One does not have to stay in England very long before the importance of A.R.P. work is seen, and we Canadians became quickly convinced that much more serious attention to these precautions should be given in Canada.

Much of the work of the Army which we saw was in the form of demonstrations, but we had an opportunity to study A.R.P. work in actual practice over there. We came back to our headquarters one afternoon to learn that a short time before some raiders had come over the vicinity and had caused considerable damage to a very large apartment hotel. Four of our party, including myself, went down to see just what had happened.

We found that the building which had been struck was a tremendously large apartment house, nine stories in height, much longer than an ordinary street block, with a projecting L at each end. There were probably a hundred or more apartments of three or four rooms each in the building, which was a comparatively new fireproof block, largely of cement and stone construction. It was a building which would not easily be damaged.

The bomb had landed directly in front of the centre of the building only a few feet from the main entrance. The bomb had been seen by the building, considerable damage to the building, and as the construction was comparable to the heavier type of building here in Canada, it was an ideal situation for us to study from the standpoint of what would be necessary in Canada to cope with raid damage.

Workers soon on the job. The first thing that struck us was the tremendous activity all over the place. Although it was only a few hours after the bomb had struck, there were hundreds of men at work at top speed.

Police and guards kept all except workers from going close to the building, and as we were intensely interested in their organization, which we wanted to study

To this end the following recommendations are offered:

Never repeat a rumor.

Do not repeat a rumor verbally, even to deny it.

If you know the facts to spike a rumor, cite the facts promptly.

If you do not know the facts which can stop a rumor, ask the rumor-teller where he got his facts.

Don't give a rumor the benefit of any doubt.

Rumors would not spread unless people repeated what they saw or heard. There is ample evidence that the enemy, or his agents, often does not know facts about war plants and war ports. The repetition of facts or rumors in such cases often makes it easier for the enemy to find out what he did not know, or simply suspected.

If we all followed the above rules we would help ourselves and confound the enemy. It's not easy to "button one's lip" when a nice, spicy rumor comes along, but the effort is well worth while.

A traffic expert says women must learn to stand in street cars. "What d'you mean, 'Learn'?" says our cynical girl reporter, who is just back from Vancouver.

with an idea of telling to the people of Canada, we presented our credentials and asked permission to enter. Here, as everywhere else in England, we were received with the greatest courtesy and conducted to the chief officer of the local A.R.P.

His organization was working smoothly and efficiently, and he personally took us around, introducing us to the heads of the various sections, and explaining what they were doing and how they carried out their duties. He also took us through a part of the building (it would have taken too long to go through it all), to see what the effect of such a bombing was.

In the event of a bombing causing such damage, two things are started at once, looking after casualties, and summoning the members of the A.R.P.

They use what is known as the snowball system to summon the members, that is, each man has to call four others. In this way all the members are very quickly notified.

Setting Up Organization

As soon as all casualties are removed, the first thing is to set up a main office known as the A.R.P. Liaison Office which keeps in close touch with everything that is going on. In this case, the office of the building made the ideal location, but where such a room is not available, the nearest suitable place is taken. The office work is broken down so that there is a section looking after each activity.

All this is done almost in a little time as it takes to tell about it.

Then, an intensive search of the building is made with the double purpose of ascertaining if there are any trapped persons, and to study if the building can be repaired and what it will require to do this. At the same time any bodies not previously removed are taken away.

Another group is taking rapid steps to salvage anything that can be saved by quick work; and this is followed by a more leisurely effort to salvage everything possible.

Transportation must be arranged as required.

Other groups are arranging for food, providing money, where necessary, to the unfortunate victims, and

"It will be good news to those who have bought lots in Lakeside subdivision to learn that the Grand Pacific Land Co., having sold over half the property, have raised the price on the balance $25 per lot." (This was shortly before the collapse in the subdivision boom.)

"Some drivers have a habit of tying their teams on the street crossings and forcing pedestrians into the mud when crossing Bernard Avenue, and perhaps, if this notice of their notice, they will be a little more thoughtful for those who have to wade through the mire."

"A man named R. Chatterton was instantly killed on Tuesday near Alvarado P.O. on Wood Lake, by the explosion of a dynamite which he was engaged in thawing. The shack in which he was working was completely demolished and his body was found sixty feet away from its site. Chatterton was an Englishman and had resided in the district for several years."

"An up-to-date butcher shop has been established by Casorso Bros. in the new brick block on Water Street, north of the Bank of Montreal. A good business is already being done, the public being quick to appreciate the fact that most of the meat supply comes from live stock on the farm's own ranch, and its freshness is thus assured as compared with the uncertain age and antecedents of refrigerated meat."

At a meeting held at Okanagan Mission, on November 25th, at the residence of F. O. Bell, an organization was constituted under the name of the Okanagan Mission Progress Association for the purpose of dealing with all public matters affecting the welfare of the district. C. S. Smith was elected President, G. C. R. Harvey, Vice-President, and R. L. Dalglish, Secretary-Treasurer.

"The Occidental Fruit Co. Ltd., has received a notification from the secretary of the 'Daily Mail' Imperial Fruit Show, recently held at the Crystal Palace, London, that the company has been awarded the first prize and a gold medal for the best display of Spitzberg apples in the Overseas Section."

"After a lovely fall and a mild November, winter came in with a rush and without any preliminary warning during the early hours of yesterday. Several inches of snow fell, accompanied by an unusually low temperature, as it generally turns very mild here when snow falls, and last night the thermometer dropped close to the zero mark. The open weather hitherto prevailing has permitted much fall work to be done, ploughing, for instance, being carried on in some districts as late as last week, so that there will be little grumbling at the advent of wintry conditions."

"Work has commenced on the improvements to the bed of Mission Creek, although the riparian owners are not, as yet, contributing to the cost. A sum of some twelve hundred dollars has been secured through using the balance left over from the contribution made by the City of Kelowna last year—some $800—and the provincial Department of Public Works providing a similar amount. At the present time men are engaged in clearing driftwood and log jams out of the creek bed above the J. Haynes place. Later on, if the weather permits, a wing dam and some cuts in the creek bed will be made, with the idea of preventing any possibility of a repetition of the damage this creek caused in 1904."

"The Ladies Auxiliary of the Anglican Church held a well patronized sale of articles useful as Christmas presents, in the Wesley Hall on Saturday afternoon, the sum of $330 being realized, which will go towards paying indebtedness on the Parish Hall."

At the annual meeting of the Kelowna Theatrical Society, held on December 5, L. Hayes was re-elected President. Other officers chosen were: Vice-President, W. J. Mantle; Secretary, D. W. Cromore; Committee, A. H. Shaw, Mrs. D. Currell, G. C. Bennore, A. L. Soames. A committee was appointed to select an opera, other than any of the works of Gilbert and Sullivan, to be performed during the winter.

A rugby football match between Vernon and Kelowna fifteens, played at the Kelowna Recreation Ground on December 2, was very even throughout. No points were scored in the first half, but in the second A. K. Loyd secured a try which gave Kelowna the victory.

A conference of fruit shippers was held in Kelowna on December 1st and 2nd, with over forty representatives of the industry in attendance. The primary purpose of the gathering was to select a delegate to represent the shippers at a convention of fruit growers to be held the following week, but advantage was also taken of the opportunity to discuss some of the problems of fruit marketing. A number of suggestions for improvement of marketing methods were submitted to the meeting, resulting finally in the defeat of a resolution favoring the establishment of a central selling agency. Another resolution advocating the use of a legal contract, equally on both sides, was carried by a large majority. E. Deborer, manager of the Salmon Arm Farmers Exchange, was appointed delegate to the fruit growers' convention.

Plans for improving conditions in the fruit industry were discussed at a convention held at Kelowna on December 8, which was attended by about forty delegates from the most important fruit growing centres of the Okanagan and Kootenay.

L. E. Taylor, as chairman of a special committee appointed to investigate the fruit situation, reported that he and General Harman had addressed 27 meetings, attended by 1,515 growers, and had travelled 4,500 miles, 1,100 of which had been covered by car. They had put the facts before the growers, ascertained from their investigations on the prairies, and would leave it to them to find some remedial scheme.

Many resolutions were submitted, which were referred to a committee for consideration. Discussion of various points occupied all Wednesday and Thursday, and the convention was still in session when The Courier went to press.

TEN YEARS AGO

Thursday, December 8, 1932

"After a prolonged period of mild and damp weather, so mild that a few rose-buds in The Courier's little patch of garden were half-blown, an exceptionally heavy rain on Sunday afternoon was followed by a sudden drop in temperature, accompanied by a piercing northerly breeze, which made the change decidedly uncomfortable. The minimum reading on Wednesday morning, as taken by P. B. Willis, Government Weather Observer, was nine above zero, and this morning, two above zero, but the wind has subsided at time of writing, and the cold accordingly does not feel so severe."

The City Council went on record as unanimously opposed to the exhibition of moving pictures on Sundays, when a proposal was laid before them to exhibit some films of Japanese life and scenery, lent by the Japanese consul in Vancouver, on a Sunday afternoon or evening, the proceeds to go to the Kelowna Hospital.

J. A. Grant, Provincial Markets Representative, reported the Winnipeg fruit and produce trade as dull, with heavy supplies and low prices. Fancy McIntosh apples were wholesaling at $1.50 per box, Coo grade at $1.75. Large crops of vegetables had been harvested in the Medicine Hat and Lethbridge districts of Alberta, and shippers were quoting as low as $8.00 a ton f.o.b. for No. 2 Nette Gem potatoes. Cabbage, turnips, carrots, beets and parsnips were offered for as little as $10.00 per ton, but the movement was slow.

PRaise THE LORD AND pass the ammunition...

The other day I heard one woman express violent disagreement with the song on the grounds that it was "sacrilegious." Can't agree with that at all. After all, doesn't the Good Book say something about the Lord helping those that try to help themselves? Certainly, it is very, very seldom these days that the Lord performs a miracle to assist the person or people who are not making some effort to help themselves. Take Dunkirk, for instance, the Lord is given some considerable credit for that—and, it would seem, deservedly so. It came just after a nation-wide day of prayer for assistance. But would the Lord have made the sea calm or miraculously transported the three hundred thousand soldiers across the Channel, if the British Government had not made an effort to mobilize the small boats? If the British authorities had just folded their hands and said "Lord, bring our army across the Channel," would the Lord have done so? Methinks no. That week-end in 1940 the British Aggravately praised the Lord and passed the ammunition. . . . But perhaps my friend who objected to the song resented the Lord's name being used in what is more or less a popular song. But isn't that one of the troubles of the day? Hasn't the Lord been reserved too much for Sunday and packed away carefully wrapped except when He was needed for a church service? Perhaps, if we had a little more of the Lord in our everyday life—our popular songs—perhaps we would not be so afraid to admit that the Lord functions other days than Sundays. . . .

SPEAKING OF SONGS, AND of "Praise the Lord,"

this war has been peculiarly short of songs that have caught on and inspired the great mass of people. Perhaps "Praise the Lord" has come as close as any to doing that job, although that is not saying much. It was "Over There" which did the job in the last fracas and "God Bless America" did something similar for prewar U.S.A. . . . I remember some years ago I attended an Empire Day ceremony in a school in Ontario. Most of the invited guests were old and battered, but considered that they were about to uplift and educate several hundred children who were gathered in the assembly hall. When the ordeal was over, we must admit that the uplift and inspiration came from the children and not the platform. The program consisted of a few slices of adult oratory garnished with thrilling spontaneous music from hundreds of youthful hearts. The boys and girls repaid the visitors by teaching a lesson that everyone in the British Empire should learn today. I do not know whether it was the sense of deliverance from the monotony of lessons or the springtime in their spirits which made even the well worn recitations as fragrant as the May flowers. I remember a catch came to the throat as a young voice almost chanted the words:

It is only a tattered bunting,
It is only an old colored rag,
But the eyes of the slave grow brighter,
As he looks at the British flag.

A COUPLE OF YEARS ago we often heard "There'll

Always be an England," but of late it has seldom been sung. Perhaps it served its purpose during the months of 1940, but I always felt that it was too difficult a song for the popular imagination. The alternate hit and machine-gun fire of the chorus we shall never forget, but it takes a singer to sing it. . . .

PROBABLY THERE IS NOTHING that the well-meaning people of the world need so much today as a singing heart. (Although our hearts have been singing a little more during these past few weeks since the 8th Army cracked down on Rommel.) When you come to think of it, the greatest hours of the human race have been inspired by song. One reason for this may be that we can often sing when we cannot speak, when speaking is beyond us. This, indeed, is the very function of singing. It is the expression of something deeper than reason. It is the fortitude of the soul beset by life. Even those who are not musical feel that singing is the play of higher reason, which is more ancient and more enduring than logic, which is a later faculty. As some one said, the songs of a nation are more enduring than its laws. . . .

I AM NOT SURE THAT WE ought to be proud because in this great moment of human history song is almost forgotten. It may be that we shall have to suffer more before our hearts are lifted to catch the music of the spheres. There is a passage in the Gospels which illustrates this truth. We read that when Jesus and His disciples had made their trist before they went out to the Mount of Olives to the zero hour at Gethsemane, they sang a hymn. It was probably some song which they had known all their lives, something they had once heard their fathers sing before they could understand the meaning of the words. . . . In the life of Cromwell there is a memorable scene when that old hero lay dying. His work was done, but the memory of the Ironsides and their victories would never die. Perhaps he remembered how, on the field of Dunbar before the charge, his men had sung the great Psalm with the words: "Let God arise and let His enemies be scattered. Let them that hate Him flee before Him." And so, as his family and attendants stood silently around his bed, the old man lifted his great head and said: "Is there no one present who will praise the Lord?" . . . We hear about services of intercession. We are continually asking God to perform miracles for us, but it is very rare indeed in time of danger and darkness to find men of sufficient faith to praise God for the wonderful things which He has done for us as individuals and as a nation. It is the singing heart which knows the secret of peace. One of the most beautiful and poignant letters ever written was not composed in a study, but it was scrawled on sheets of paper in a tent in the Antarctic where Captain Scott and his companion, Dr. Edward Wilson, lay dying in the snow. He described in a letter, which was found after his death, how they were frozen and starving, and he finishes with the amazing words: "But it would do your heart good to hear our cheerful songs and merry conversation." . . .

BUT SINGING IS NOT A substitute for action. For those who sing the hymn and never set out, there is only frustration and contempt. One of the reasons why freedom and faith are in such deadly danger is that salt which has lost its savor is only fit to be trodden under the foot of man. Long ago, in the swamps of the primeval world, there were huge armored monsters wallowing and cruel flying lizards which threatened all life upon this planet, but only their bones remain. The spirit of the singer has survived. The tank and bomber can be conquered by the dream and the song. One of the most impressive scenes of that excellent movie, "Mrs. Miniver," was the clear, impersonal notes of the choir boys ringing out in that battered, devastated church, where the village worshipped immediately after the air raid. All the innocence, pain, dreams and hopes of the world were there. . . . The song is the secret weapon which no dragon can withstand. . . .

NEW DE HAVILLAND "MOSQUITO"

First released picture of sensational new de Havilland "Mosquito" that is in the news right now with its brilliant daylight and night raids over enemy territory. The de Havilland Mosquito is powered with two Rolls Royce engines. Developed by the de Havilland Design Staff, the Mosquito reconnaissance bomber is of simple wooden construction. The dimensions of the Mosquito are: Span, 54' 2"; Length (overall) 40' 8"; Height (over propeller tip) one blade vertically upward to wheel on ground, 15' 3"; both the undercarriage and tail wheel units are retractable. It has the de Havilland three-bladed hydro-matic type propeller. Offensive armaments may consist of four 20 mm. cannon and four 303 machine guns. The "Mosquito" is also being manufactured by de Havilland in Canada.

The name de Havilland is famous in aviation history. Continuously engaged in the manufacture of aeroplanes since 1908, de Havilland factories span the world. The wide scope of their products and activities is believed unsurpassed in the aviation industry. The de Havilland Mosquito is pictured above, and is their latest achievement.

Sand and Pump Methods of Bomb Disposal Shown at Elementary School Saturday Afternoon by A.R.P. Squad

The Elementary School ground was the scene on Saturday afternoon, at four o'clock, of an all-important A.R.P. demonstration given by Cpl. D. W. Taylor, of the Provincial Police, Victoria, F. C. Bass, Senior A.R.P. Instructor, Vancouver, and Capt. E. D. W. Levison, A.R.P. Controller, Sancho. The three Coast officials showed a number of local A.R.P. officials and other interested citizens the correct method of handling an incendiary bomb and how to protect themselves when an explosive bomb drops nearby.

A miniature incendiary bomb was lit, being about one-tenth the size of an actual bomb, and the three men demonstrated how to handle it. A bucket of sand was poured over the sizzling white-hot mass and, with a specially made hoe and shovel, the fire and sand were transferred into a bucket. Another bomb was lit to illustrate the value of the stirrup pump.

Cpl. Taylor then lay on the ground and a bomb was exploded only a few feet away. He demonstrated the correct position in which to recline, with the feet together pointing away from the explosion, helmet covering the scalp and hands behind the head. Before the explosion, onlookers were asked to stand several feet distant. They experienced more shock than did the police officer. This demonstrated the method of protection when an actual bomb explodes.

"I don't like the looks of that halibut," said the lady customer. "Lady, if it's looks you're after, why not buy goldfish?" asked the market man.

a housing department finds accommodation for the bombed-out people, if they have no other place to go.

If, as it was in this case, it is possible to repair the building, contractors and workers are called to the job at once and carrying out their tasks as if it were everyday routine.

On the street in front of the building was a caution truck which bore on its sides a sign showing that it had been presented to the Lord Mayor's Fund by a Southern Rhodesian community.

In the courtyard were a number of men sweeping the grass. One of our party called attention to them, remarking that there was an example of typical British efficiency, to which our guide replied: "That is something that is absolutely necessary. Those men have already recovered two valuable rings and a cigarette case." We were told that the action of a bomb is about as unpredictable as that of a stroke of lightning, and frequently the explosion will suck all small articles right out of a building.

It will be seen that these details require trained men, and it was not surprising to find that our guide in private life was a building contractor.

Even by the time we got there, workers were already preparing to make repairs and were chipping out the remains of broken windows, and window glass was arriving for necessary replacements.

One essential thing is that warden know all the people in their territory and that they account for them. It is not a matter of war, so local authority is not enough.

The studies made of this work and its results are of great benefit to others.

Quick communication is necessary and, as the telephones are state-owned, there is full co-operation, but more is necessary, as the telephones might very possibly be put out of action. Therefore a system of messengers must be provided for.

Early Efforts Important

One thing should be impressed upon the people of Canada, and that is that much of the early damage by raiders could have been prevented if proper precautions had been taken before the raids began, and if the organization had been perfected in advance. That is to say, much damage was caused by fires which got out of hand because there were not enough properly trained fire fighters to deal with the emergency when it arose.

The time for Canadians to prepare for such emergencies is now, not after some city has suffered a bad raid.

In the same way that the telephones might be interrupted, the water mains must be destroyed with disastrous effect. Therefore provision has been made in every community in England to have plenty of water in storage. Thousands of basements of buildings that have been destroyed are being used for this purpose. These basements have been cleaned out, cemented on the walls and bottom so that they will hold, and have been filled with water. We saw many of these, and also other great storage tanks ready for an emergency.

recent months have only been a lull in which Germany has been tooling up in order to unleash heavier bombs on England more after the block-busting type. At the same time it is believed that before long Canada will have German bombs dropping on her, and that at the same time that Germany is tooling up for heavier raids on England she is making preparations to send planes capable of longer cruising range that will enable her to bomb America.

Therefore, we should take steps to prepare for such eventualities; we should take a lesson from England's experience and organize a most efficient C.P.C.

KELOWNA SEA CADET CORPS "Grenville"

Orders for the week commencing December 14.
Duty Division: Main Top.
The Corps will parade on Monday, at 19.15 hours.
On Thursday, a Bun Feast will be held and uniforms are not to be worn for this social event. Cadets are requested to bring a gift not exceeding ten cents in value.

It has come to the notice of the Commanding Officer that some boys are leaving home on parade nights apparently to come to parade, but they go to the show instead. In some cases these boys phone for leave of absence as being sick or with some other excuse. Any boy caught committing any such offence will be discharged from the Corps immediately. If any more cases of this kind happen, no boy will be granted leave to be absent from parade, unless the request is made by his parents themselves. Any surplus uniform must be handed in at an early date to the C.O. and not to any other Cadet. On Monday night, Mr. Hoyle gave a talk to the boys and presented a picture of the sailing ship "Grenville" to the Corps.

SALVAGE MEN SAVE PLANES FROM ENEMY

R.A.F. Ground Men Snatch Disabled Machines From Under Noses of Foe

The ingenuity of salvage men of the Royal Air Force in snatching disabled planes from under the noses of the enemy is one of the reasons why Allied planes have been able to smash Hitler's air power with comparative small depletion of strength. Often working in no man's land under heavy enemy fire, the men stripped machines that had been forced down and brought back valuable parts or returned with the whole plane. Sometimes machines crashed so close to enemy positions that it was impossible to salvage them with a few tools and a couple of pigeons. The first message the pigeons brought back said that he had stripped the bomber of the most valuable components and had taken them to a certain spot in the desert. He asked if another truck could be sent out to collect them. And he also asked if it would bring a tommy gun, as he was tired of lying in a trench and started by Messerschmitts without being able to return their fire.

After the truck collected the parts and delivered the tommy gun, he spent a few more days in the area stripping parts from other crashes. He could not go back to the bomber because the enemy had put an armored car on guard over it. He returned with a full load of valuable material.

While land battles were raging, a corporal and a group of infantrymen salvaged a Kittyhawk and a Hurricane which were forced down between the two lines. Both pilots were rescued.

The Hurricane was the more difficult to salvage, as it lay near German positions on the far side of some minefields. The salvage party travelled through the mined area, guided by a long thread of tape, and dragged the plane back. Salvaging the Kittyhawk was mere child's play, because it was close to our lines.

Within a month this corporal and a party of four airmen salvaged spare parts and scrap metal from twenty-five crashed planes, some of them enemy ships.

Harold: "There's the handkerchief that you dropped last night, dear. I slept with it under my pillow, and I've kissed it a thousand times." Alice: "That isn't my handkerchief. That's my little dog. Fil's nose-wipe."

CANADA BUILDS CORVETTE FOR U.S. NAVY

The first warship to be built, christened and launched in Canada for the U.S. navy, slid down the ways at an eastern Canadian shipyard in the presence of Canadian, British and U.S. officials. The ship, a corvette and one of several to be built in Canada on U.S. account, was christened U.S.S. Danville by Mrs. Pierrepont Moffat, wife of the U.S. minister to Canada.

Capt. E. D. W. Leven Lectures on Bomb Types and Tells What To Do If Caught in Raid

Speaking to a capacity audience in the Elementary School auditorium on Friday evening, when A.R.P. members from the city and outlying districts attended, Capt. E. D. W. Leven, a staff member of the A.R.P. Extension Library, gave an informative address on a few of the simpler methods of self protection which should be practised in the event of an air raid.

Prefacing his remarks with descriptions of various types of bombs used in enemy attacks from the air, Capt. Leven briefly told of the difference between shells and shrapnel also described various methods of protection and the effects which could be expected after their explosion, and associate subjects.

"The nearer you are to an exploding bomb, the safer," asserted the speaker, who said during the First Great War and has made an exhaustive study of incendiaries and other explosives used during the present struggle.

Danger of Broken Glass

He said that high explosives had a tremendous effect when hitting the ground, and he warned his audience as to the danger of glass splinters. "Windows do not always go in; they sometimes go out," he stated. "That glass has penetrated solid concrete to a depth of four inches in Leicester Square, London, during an air raid was a statement of the danger of flying fragments. In this part of London, 75 tons of broken glass were collected after a single raid. In this connection, Capt. Leven drew comparisons between the collapse of houses made of bricks, mortar and concrete such as are Old Country dwellings, and those of wood. Presupposing the occupants had taken shelter in the basement of their home, the weight of falling bricks and masonry is far greater than that of wood. Many lives have been lost through the collapse of floors, owing to weight into basements and cellars, he declared.

"During an air raid," advised the speaker, "open your mouth. The reason for this is that it saves the eardrums."

Methods of Self-Protection

"The human reaction to a bombing raid is to run in all directions," he stated. "Do not yield to this natural instinct. Put your hands behind your head, turn the face slightly to the side, keep the legs close together." The effects of explosions, said Capt. Leven, have been such as to tear flesh from the bones in some isolated cases.

A trench dug the width of the body, with sandbags placed around the edge, was a precautionary method of shelter, sketched by the lecturer on the blackboard. "Put a heavy curtain or a blanket is a much safer foil in that it is resilient and springs back. A solid coverage is much more dangerous, he said, using the simile of a drunken man or a child not suffering injuries when they fall, because they are resilient and spring back. A solid coverage is much more dangerous, he said, using the simile of a drunken man or a child not suffering injuries when they fall, because they are resilient and spring back.

In conclusion, Capt. Leven gave a serious warning regarding unexploded bombs. "Do not be like 'Old Bill,' of Barmisthatter fame, who, because it did not 'sizzle,' thought an unexploded bomb was harmless," advised the lecturer. Should such a missile remain after an air raid, the area surrounding it for about 400 feet should be roped off. Persons in houses within this area should be evacuated. "Don't touch it," he warned, explaining that the military disposal squad would deal with the missile and knew how to

TROOPS WANT HOME LETTERS

Who is going to be the goalie for the home town hockey team? What is the largest activity on Main Street? How is the pet calf down on the farm and who is "running for mayor?"

Those are just some of the topics Canadian troops overseas like to read about in the letters they receive from home. The Canadian Chaplain Service has been asked by the Canadian Army to enlist the help of the churches in the matter of writing worthwhile letters to service men who are away from home and offers a few suggestions.

The Armed Forces appreciate the value of letters from home to cheer up men who are away from their families. Many relatives of soldiers shirk their duty to write frequently, telling of what is happening at home and every man in the Service has interests outside of his family who could tell him what is occurring at his former place of employment, his club, sports organization, church, school and farm. His friends as well as his family should write to him, and frequently.

Character of the letters is as important as volume. Difficulties at home should not be over-stressed. Where possible letters should contain a note of optimism and would tend to keep to a minimum the soldier's worry concerning home affairs. The bulk of family letters should cheerily indicate that the folks at home are tackling their problems in the right spirit. Letters from children should also be encouraged because of the cheer they usually contain.

Occasionally wives complain of their loneliness. This should be avoided in letters as should gossip which is always harmful. Emphasis placed upon good jobs being held by someone at home may prove discouraging also.

Churches, clubs and other community organizations are being encouraged by the Canadian Chaplain Service to appoint committees which will maintain lists of men from which proper addresses can be obtained. One church maintains

The exhibition will run for an hour and a half and will follow the dinner, which starts at 6.30 p.m.

"Are you a pharmacist?" she asked the young man at the soda fountain.
"No, madam," he replied. "I am a fizician."

COST OF LIVING INDEX IS UP

Almost One Point Rise Recorded During October, Ottawa Announces

An advance of eight-tenths of a point in the official cost-of-living index during October was reported last week by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. At November 2, the index stood at 118.6, compared with 117.8 at October 1.

The October advance brought the total wartime increase in the cost of living index to 17.7 per cent. Cost-of-living bonuses are not affected by the advance. The payments are adjusted every three months, with the next revision due February 15.

PEACHLAND W.I. HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

Mrs. W. D. Miller Elected President and Mrs. C. T. Redstone Secretary of Women's Institute

Mrs. W. D. Miller was elected President and Mrs. C. T. Redstone, Secretary-Treasurer, of the Women's Institute of Peachland at their annual meeting held November 13. Mrs. G. Watt was elected Vice-President and Mrs. L. B. Fulk and Mrs. H. Ibbotson, Directors.

The retiring President, Mrs. J. Ibbotson, outlined the work of the year, after which reports were heard from Mrs. A. Smalls, Convenor of War Services, and Mrs. A. Wright, Secretary of the Comfort Club.

Mrs. Wright stated that parcels had been sent to the boys overseas for Christmas, 1941 and 1942. The parcels had also been sent across in March and November. The men in the services in Canada were remembered at Christmas time with a cake and a quilt. Appreciative letters of thanks were received from all to whom the parcels were sent.

An auction sale of miscellaneous articles resulted in the sum of $11.70 being realized.

A good shipment of articles was sent out by the Peachland Women's Institute for September and October. These included 3 large quilts, 66 babies' garments, 38 ladies' clothing, 16 girls' articles, 13 men's and 8 boys'. They were made up as follows: Babies: 3 blankets, 1 apron, 1 pair nightgowns, 9 petticoats, 6 shirts, 3 hand knitted wool jackets, 1 bar soap, 3 cans powder, 3 dozen safety pins, 3 facecloths, one three-piece legging suit, 1 sweater, 2 pairs shoes, 3 dresses, 3 slips, 2 pairs socks, ladies: five coats, 2 suits, 6 hats, 6 dresses, 1 jerkin, 1 sweater, 3 slips, 3 blouses, 3 scarves, 1 pair bedroom slippers, 1 kerchief, 2 purses, and 1 miscellaneous girls': pair slacks, 2 slips, 5 dresses, 1 play suit, 1 blouse, 1 pair shorts, 3 skirts, 1 coat, 1 pair 3/4 jama, 1 pair pyjamas, 1 cap, 1 shirt, 1 pair pyjamas, 1 pair rubbers, 2 pairs socks, 1 pair arm bands, boys': 1 suit, 1 shirt, 1 sweater, 1 cap, 4 pairs shoes; men: 3 overcoats.

A most successful military whist drive was held by the Canadian Legion, Friday afternoon, Dec. 4th, at the Legion Hall. First prizes were won by "England," played by Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Redstone, Mrs. L. B. Fulk and Miss Verne Cousins, while the consolation prize went to "Cuba," played by Mr. and Mrs. O. Keating, Harry Birkeland and J. Champion. The proceeds for the evening went to cigarettes for the men in the services.

The annual bazaar held by St. Margaret's Anglican Women's Auxiliary was most successful in spite of snowy weather, and a good crowd attended. The fancy work table presented a fine array of aprons, pillow slips, etc., and was in charge of Mrs. A. Wright and Mrs. J. Bush. Mrs. A. West presided over the novelty stall, while Mrs. H. Sutherland and Mrs. L. B. Fulk were in charge of the fine display of home cooking. Miss M. Coldham looked after the fish pond which was soon "fished out" by the younger fry.

Rev. L. J. Tatham, of Summerland, opened the bazaar officially, and the wares on display were soon sold off. Tea was served by members of the Auxiliary during the afternoon.

G. Lang returned to his home Friday, December 4, after eight weeks at the Kelowna Hospital.

Lieut.-Col. O. St. John left Saturday, December 5, for prairie province where he will give a series of ten lectures arranged by the Canadian Club. Col. St. John will speak in Edmonton, Calgary, Saskatoon and will discuss India, with which he is familiar through twenty-five years in the Imperial Army there.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Heighway returned December 2, after two weeks holiday spent at Vancouver.

Art Birkeland left Sunday, December 6, for eastern Canada, where he will train with the R.C.A.F.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Bradford and family have taken up their residence at the Edgewater Inn.

Miss Duke left Saturday, December 5, after a holiday spent at the home of Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. O. St. John.

C. Topham, Monday, December 7, for Vancouver, where he has enlisted with the anti-aircraft section of the Canadian Army.

Pte. T. A. Roberts, of Vernon, spent the week-end with his family here.

THE RAILWAY AND THE WAR . . . By Thurston Topham

Canada's stupendous war effort makes increasing demands on Canadian transportation, and the railways are now purchasing huge quantities of supplies and equipment to keep them rolling for Victory.

The tax bill paid by the C.N.R. in a single year (and special taxes) would build more than 5,000 workers homes under the War-time Housing plan.

The C.N.R. is the only railway in North America that operates a ship-building yard. This is turning out naval vessels and cargo ships—one of the many big railway war jobs.

In 1941 the C.N.R. purchased goods to the value of 100 million dollars. To pay for this the Railway had to haul 100 tons of freight 9 billion miles, equivalent to 18,000 round trips between the Earth and the Moon.

Evasive Action Does Queer Things To Planes And Crew

Milk Bottle Floats in Air Along With Air Crew as Gravity Takes a Holiday, But Cup of Tea Unspilt

LONDON.—Weird tales of things that happen inside a big plane when it takes "evasive action" when strange currents plague the air fields, are building a legend of anti-gravitational fact stranger than any fiction Jules Verne ever wrote. A wireless operator, new to evasive action, was amazed to see two pint milk bottles floating about the cabin of a Hudson as it suspended on invisible wires. He reached up to catch one—and found himself hanging on to it with his feet clear of the floor.

A beam gunner on the floor of a bomber suddenly found himself lifted slowly and deliberately to the roof of the cabin and held there, like the girl in the magician's trick, without visible means of support.

These stories and more like these are official. They are recorded by the R.A.F. from the reports of men well versed in a tradition of absolute truth and accuracy.

Time takes a holiday, a pilot comes back to report that he "took evasive action" to avoid anti-aircraft fire or enemy fighters. That prosaic report may represent many minutes of agonizing motion for the crew.

Sometimes it's fun. They may lie crushed against the floor or cling desperately to their seats as the aircraft thrashes wildly about the sky.

The pilot, strapped tightly in his seat, may even enjoy the "fun." But the crew are sometimes tossed about "like peas in a basin," as one articulate observer put it.

Q. Did this happen to loose objects? A navigator reached up to catch an instrument box which was flung from a shelf—and found himself hanging to it—both he and the box suspended in mid-air.

An indignant air gunner reported that the heavy R.A.F. camera had sailed from the nose of the plane into his turret, hitting him squarely between the shoulders.

Evasive action is bad, but currents in storm clouds may be worse. Throughout the R.A.F. they are marvelling today about the "be-liev-able-not" tale of an Australian Sunderland four-motored flying boat over the Bay of Biscay which flew into the tunnel of a cumulus nimbus cloud and emerged.

Two pilots fought the dual-control column to stabilize the plane. But all the controls went haywire.

The cook, preparing breakfast on his stove, was deposited on the roof in a normal sitting position. He looked down and saw his plate and the breakfast pots and pans had disappeared.

The navigator, Pilot Officer J. Kennedy, of Victoria, Australia, left the navigation table with his instruments at precisely the same moment. He came to rest in the glass astrodome in the roof—just in time to receive his maps, rulers and dividers on his lap.

On the bridge, Flying Officer A. Shears, of Brisbane, was standing behind the captain's seat. He rose vertically until his head bumped against the roof.

"I then found," he reported, still puzzled, "that I was suspended there. Yet, I could raise one dangling foot to the throttle, which were just in front of my toe, and push them wide open."

Seated Without a Seat. At the same time the captain of the Sunderland, Pilot Officer F. Manger, of Victoria, Australia, found that his head, too, was pressed behind the roof and, although he still held the controls and was in a sitting position, he was no longer in his seat.

No one could guess exactly what had happened. The Sunderland may have dropped hundreds of feet in a terrific stall. At length it righted itself, and the crew collapsed on the deck in grotesque positions.

These were some of the things that happened.

In the tail gun turret, Pilot Officer H. Evans, R.A.F., had struck his head on the reflector sight and had knocked it off its bracket. Ordinarily, such a feat would have to be performed with a heavy hammer. The lids had come off the ammunition pans and bells of the turret.

Parachutes had been forced out of their bags. The lockers in the ward room had burst open and their contents were scattered everywhere. But the padded cushions on the locker lids, which are used as beds, were found inside the lockers. The food in the galley had disappeared.

ARMY CONCERT MUCH ENJOYED

Playing to a capacity audience, Actors Incorporated, a new show aggregation from the Vernon camp, gave an interesting and varied program in the Empress Theatre on Sunday evening. Cpl. Gil Stuart, of the Basic Training Centre, acted as M.C., and the popular Army dance band, "Men About Town," from B.T.C. 110 was in attendance throughout the program.

Solos by Miss Vivian French, a Vernon singer with a beautiful soprano voice, formed the highlight of the evening's entertainment, and the harmonica numbers by Jack Gomm were thoroughly enjoyed.

A short skit entitled "Here We Are Again," starring Norma French and Cpl. Stuart, added a certain amount of spice to the concert. Frank Baker stepped out of the trumpet section and took the spotlight with a trumpet bit, billed as "Two Men On a Trumpet," which made clever use of finger dolls.

"The Men About Town" have an excellent band, but their music would be much more enjoyable if the P.A. system was not in use during their selections.

The program was sponsored by the local C.R.C.C., and the proceeds, which amounted to approximately $150, will be used to improve the T.O. H. rooms, where the soldiers are billeted and entertained by the C.R.C.C. during the week-ends.

OKANAGAN CENTRE

The whist drive put on by the Community Hall Association on Thursday night last, at the Hall, was a jolly party. Six tables were filled. Mr. and Mrs. Macfarlane won the two first prizes of War Savings Stamps. Consolation prizes were awarded to Mrs. Carter and P. W. Pixton. Tasty refreshments were served near midnight. Miss Gled, E. C. Nuyens and H. Van Ackeren composed the committee on arrangements.

Mr. and Mrs. Cheesman were guests the previous night, and Mrs. E. C. Maile, at their home in Kelowna.

The local Red Cross unit met this week on Monday at the home of Mrs. Thompson. Since the first of May the members have made and delivered to the Red Cross Society at Kelowna, to which they are contributing 79 articles, including 20 sweaters.

Mrs. A. C. Whitford, of Cranbrook, who had been with her daughter, Mrs. Hare, at the Centre for the past three months, left last week for Vancouver, where she will visit her other daughter, Mrs. Bishop.

Miss Doris Gled, of the teaching staff of the Kelowna Junior High School, spent the week-end at her home here.

NO INCREASE IN SPECIAL XMAS DINNER RATES

Restaurants and Hotels Must Charge Same Price as Last Year, Rules Wartime Price Board

With the Christmas season approaching, the services administration of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board notifies operators of restaurants that they are permitted to offer the same special Christmas menu as provided in their establishments last year. The prices, however, must not exceed those of a year ago and the quantity, quality and service must be maintained.

Before new items are offered on the menu, whether in a special dinner or otherwise, the prices of such items must have the approval of the Board.

Applications for new Christmas specials should be made early to the Services Office, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Marine Building, Vancouver.

The services administration also informs restaurant operators that it is quite in order to advise the public that tea and coffee will be served with meals only.

The ration and service departments leave it to the restaurateur to determine what constitutes a meal.

If any restaurant operator is unable to serve tea or coffee, requested by a customer with meals, the operator must reduce the price of the meal proportionately. The minimum should be a reduction of five cents in the listed price of the table d'hôte meal.

More About 9 F.O. FRED WATERMAN

From page 1, column 6 of them as I didn't know whose they were!

"After walking for quite a number of hours, a voice challenged me in a foreign tongue and a figure appeared with a rifle, and I had visions of spending the rest of the time as a prisoner of war. But luckily the 'foreign tongue' turned out to be 'Indian' and the trooper removed the bayonet from my middle when he saw my R.A.F. hat badge.

"I went to their camp and in the morning was picked up by an armed car patrol. The officer in charge said, 'Which way did you come?' When I told him, he said, 'Well, you were lucky; the German lines are only three kilometres away and you walked across a couple of mine fields.' Whereupon I wiped my brow....

"After hitchhiking in tanks, armoured cars and lorries, I eventually made my way back to the squadron to find that the crew had all got out and back O.K. except for the co-pilot, who broke his leg in the parachute jump, but had been picked up by an army patrol."

Canadian National officials from Winnipeg were visitors in Kelowna on Sunday and Monday of this week. They included W. E. Munro, General Superintendent of Transportation; J. J. Behan, Superintendent of Car Service, and W. Gody, of the Winnipeg staff.

MILITARY BALL SOCIAL EVENT THIS EVENING

Beta Sigma Phi Dance at I.O.O.F. Hall With Winnipeg Light Infantry Band

Many parties have been arranged for this evening, Thursday, prior to the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority Military Ball to be held in the Odd-fellows Hall, where it is expected that a large number of officers and their wives, from the Vernon camp, will be present as guests of the Sorority.

Through the very kind courtesy of Brigadier W. G. Colquhoun, M.C., the Winnipeg Light Infantry Band will supply the music for the evening's dancing. A floor show has been arranged for the supper hour in the downstairs hall of the building, which has been colorfully decorated with Christmas motifs and turned into an attractive lounge for the benefit of those who do not care to dance all evening.

Jeeps, tanks, gun carriers and every conceivable weapon of modern warfare have been used in the decorating of the dance hall itself. Flags of the United Nations will supply a patriotic and picturesque background for the lovely formal gowns of the feminine dancers.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Lander have invited a number of friends to their home on Royal Avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Dayton Williams will entertain at their lakeshore home on Vimy Avenue. Members of the Vernon Medical Corps will be the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Walter Anderson at their Abbott Street home before the dance, and countless other parties have been arranged for this gala affair by Kelowna hostesses.

The proceeds from the dance will be turned over to the local branch of the Canadian Red Cross to assist in carrying on its excellent work.

SEASON ON BIRDS AND BIG GAME ENDS TUESDAY

Huntmen Have Had Fine Sport This Season on Both Ducks and Deer—Bucks in Prime Condition

Open season on ducks and geese closes on Tuesday, December 15. Hunters report that better sport than usual has been enjoyed by Kelowna sportsmen this season.

In addition to large bags of ducks, a number of geese have been shot in the district, and securing one of these wily birds is something of a feat as they are experts at detecting danger.

The season on deer and mountain goat also terminates next Tuesday, and, although not many of the latter have been taken this year, nimble deer have enjoyed splendid sport shooting. A large number of fine bucks have been shot within a few miles of Kelowna, and they were all in prime condition. Sportsmen say that they have never seen fatter deer than those secured this year.

EFFECTIVE NOW

Prices of

TEA, COFFEE and ORANGES

are Reduced by Law!

This action is taken in line with the Government's declared determination to stabilize living costs on a basis that is fair to all. It is a developing attack on the menace of inflation which arises out of wartime conditions. The prices of tea, coffee and oranges are now lowered by official order. Plans for reduction in the price of milk to the consumer are also under way and will be announced in the near future. The items chosen have been selected because of their important place in the weekly budget of every home in Canada.

TEA AND COFFEE

Effective now—the retail price of tea is reduced by 10c per pound and the retail price of coffee by 4c per pound below the recent lawful ceiling prices.

The table below indicates how the reduction of 10c per pound applies to less-than-pound packages; and is for purposes of illustration only.

Tea formerly selling by the pound at	$1.00	90c	85c
Must now sell at
per pound	90c	80c	75c
per 1-2 pound	45c	40c	38c
per 1-4 pound	24c	22c	21c
per 1-8 pound	13c	12c	11c

BULK TEA

The reduction in the maximum retail prices of bulk tea sold in quantities less than a pound should correspond to the reduction in retail prices for the small sizes of packaged tea.

FOR EXAMPLE, if a line of bulk tea now sells at 70c per pound (reduced from 80c) then the maximum selling prices should be:

4 ounces	19c
2 ounces	10c

TEA BAGS

For some time tea bags have been packaged in cartons containing 2 ozs., 4 ozs. and 8 ozs. net.

Reductions in retail prices of tea packaged in tea bags must correspond to those made in packaged tea.

ORANGES

Oranges must be reduced to give consumers the benefit of the reduction in cost to retailers brought about by lower prices for the new crop, by seasonal removal of import duty (effective December 1st, this year) and by the removal of the War Exchange Tax. Oranges should sell at or below the September-October 1941 retail price levels.

BE SURE THAT YOU GET THE FULL BENEFIT OF THESE REDUCTIONS

SPECIAL NOTICE TO RETAILERS:

Retailers will be compensated for any loss on present stocks—in order that these reductions may be enjoyed by the public immediately. Retailers should take inventory of their floor stocks of tea and coffee as of the close of business, Saturday, December 5th. They will shortly receive forms upon which to make their claims for compensation for losses on inventory due to these price regulations.

Simpson company may concentrate as much as possible on war requirements and their wholesale business.

"The Kelowna Saw-Mill Co. has served this community in an exceptionally efficient manner during the past few years. It has built up a tremendous amount of goodwill throughout the district through that considerable service. It is the intention to carry on this policy and to serve this community as efficiently as the pressure of the times will enable us," Mr. Simpson stated. "We trust that the people of this community will continue to find as efficient and considerate service in the future as they received from the Kelowna Saw-Mill Co. in the past."

S. M. Simpson, President of S. M. Simpson Ltd., started business in the district in 1913, when in partnership with O. C. Etter, he commenced the present business in the blacksmith shop just south of the Fire Hall on Water Street. A year later, Simpson took over the business himself.

year only 30,000 ticks are sold. At the present time the reserve stock amounts to only 2,000 ticks, whereas last year it was 13,000 at this time.

The general policy adopted by the company amounts to simply this: slabwood will be sold only to those people who can prove to the company's satisfaction that they really need it.

Some persons have purchased abnormal supplies, while others have attempted to operate on the same basis as other years. It is the latter class which will receive consideration from the company. If a home really needs slabwood, it will receive it; but it should only be asked for when it is really needed.

HELEN A. PAVLE MARRIED TO GNR. R. MEUNIER

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Pavle Married on Tuesday to Roland Meunier, of Kelowna

On Tuesday, December 8, at 10:00 a.m. in the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Helen Anne, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Pavle, became the bride of Gnr. Roland R. Meunier, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Henri Meunier, of this city. Very Rev. Father McKenzie performed the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was becomingly attired in a wedding gown of white "sheer" with silver embroidery and a veil of silk net held in place by a halo of orange blossoms. Her bridal bouquet was of deep red roses.

The bridemaids were Miss Ann Schultz, in a blue sheer frock and carrying a bouquet of red and white carnations, and Miss Vera Whittingham, cousin of the bride, in a pink sheer gown with a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Little Beverly Selles, the flower girl, was in her floor length orchid sheer frock, offset by the basket of yellow and white chrysanthemums which she carried.

Arthur Pavle, the bride's brother, was the groomsman, and the ushers were Arthur Marty and Andreane Marty.

Miss Phyllis Schumaker, accompanied by the St. Cecilia Choir, of which the bride was a member, sang "Ave Maria."

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Father McKenzie proposed the toast to the bride and groom, to which the groom made an apt response.

For her travelling ensemble the bride chose a mustard crepe frock with red accessories.

Gnr. and Mrs. Meunier will reside at Esquimalt, after a honeymoon spent in the coast cities.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. N. Relser, Vernon, Adam Schmidt and F. Dechamps, Kamloops, and Mrs. Frank Relser, Vernon.

RESUME U.S. SHIPMENTS

Half the December Quota Already Sold in United States —Prairie Sales Off

Although word was only received on Saturday morning by B.C. Tree Fruits that British Columbia would be permitted to export another fifty thousand boxes of apples to the United States during December, about half of the quota has already been shipped, thirty-five of the apples being shipped from the Okanagan valley.

Last week-end Ottawa announced that the Okanagan would be permitted to send another fifty thousand boxes to the United States during December and a further one hundred and fifty thousand during the balance of the season.

The original understanding was that the Okanagan would be permitted to ship eight hundred thousand and during the season, half before and half after the New Year. The first four hundred thousand was shipped on several weeks ago.

The new arrangement represents a reduction of two hundred thousand boxes from the original understanding, but represents an increase over the amount which the Government has intimated in recent weeks it would permit to be exported.

Unfavorable weather conditions of the prairies have slowed down sales during the past week and during the period November 30th to December 5th only 283 cars were shipped. An additional 28 were moved on Monday and 30 on Tuesday.

During the week A. K. Loyd, president of B.C. Tree Fruits, D. McNair, sales manager, and G. Brown, secretary, were at the Coast in conference with cannery interests, laying plans for next season and ironing out apparent difficulties.

Alderman Sutherland said that pressure from friends and supporters who insisted that he should stand had caused him to reconsider.

HELEN A. PAVLE MARRIED TO GNR. R. MEUNIER

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Pavle Married on Tuesday to Roland Meunier, of Kelowna

On Tuesday, December 8, at 10:00 a.m. in the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Helen Anne, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Pavle, became the bride of Gnr. Roland R. Meunier, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Henri Meunier, of this city. Very Rev. Father McKenzie performed the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was becomingly attired in a wedding gown of white "sheer" with silver embroidery and a veil of silk net held in place by a halo of orange blossoms. Her bridal bouquet was of deep red roses.

The bridemaids were Miss Ann Schultz, in a blue sheer frock and carrying a bouquet of red and white carnations, and Miss Vera Whittingham, cousin of the bride, in a pink sheer gown with a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Little Beverly Selles, the flower girl, was in her floor length orchid sheer frock, offset by the basket of yellow and white chrysanthemums which she carried.

Arthur Pavle, the bride's brother, was the groomsman, and the ushers were Arthur Marty and Andreane Marty.

Miss Phyllis Schumaker, accompanied by the St. Cecilia Choir, of which the bride was a member, sang "Ave Maria."

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Father McKenzie proposed the toast to the bride and groom, to which the groom made an apt response.

For her travelling ensemble the bride chose a mustard crepe frock with red accessories.

Gnr. and Mrs. Meunier will reside at Esquimalt, after a honeymoon spent in the coast cities.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. N. Relser, Vernon, Adam Schmidt and F. Dechamps, Kamloops, and Mrs. Frank Relser, Vernon.

HOW TO LAUNDRER WASHABLE GLOVES

If your gloves are guaranteed washable (never wash them if they are not), these washing rules are suggested for both fabrics and leathers.

Make a rich suds of a mild soap in water that's so lukewarm it's almost cool. Wash the gloves either on or off your hands. It's all right to soak white gloves, but soaking may streak colors. Rinse in clear, lukewarm water. You'll get better results with chambray gloves if you don't rinse all the soap out. You may injure gloves if you wring them out. Instead, roll them in a towel and press the moisture out. Then pull them into shape and place them flat on a covered surface. Do not dry them on or near a radiator. Preserving leather goods is now on or off your hands. It's all right a patriotic gesture.

KELOWNA GYROS ADDRESSED BY DR. HERSHEY

Medical Health Officer Lectures on Problem of Venereal Disease

SIX POINT PROGRAM

Major Cause of Insanity and Breakdown in Health—Free Clinics Check Spread of Disease

Venereal disease is one of our major public health problems. Dr. J. M. Hershey, Medical Health Officer, told the Kelowna Gyro Club last week, stating that more than eleven thousand cases had been reported during the past four years, and that it was evident from this figure that a tremendous number of cases were unreported.

Venereal diseases cost the United States $4,000,000 in 1941 in the cost of those suffering confined to mental institutions. In this province the cost of caring for those persons in our mental institutions as a result of venereal disease was $70,000. An average of 140 persons are in these institutions each year as a result of venereal disease.

In the United States, out of two million men called under the draft law, one hundred thousand were turned down as unfit for service as a result of such diseases.

In the First Great War the United States lost seven million men. They in war plants through employees suffering from venereal disease.

More than three per cent of the war workers in the United States suffer from syphilis, and this results in a tremendous amount of lost time, accidents and lowered morale among the workers.

Congenital syphilis is a major tragedy and is today the result of ignorance.

The British Columbia Government now has a six-point program to combat the disease. Government officials will inform the public about venereal disease in the hope that this will lead to a better understanding of the problem.

Through private physicians and free clinics there are now adequate diagnostic and treatment facilities to stamp out venereal disease.

The importance of a routine blood test before marriage is gaining wide acceptance as a sound protective measure.

Since the detection and early treatment of syphilis in expectant mothers can prevent the infection of babies in ninety-five per cent of all cases, it is imperative that this hopeful fact be widely publicized.

Only a physician is qualified to diagnose and treat a venereal disease. "Treatment" by unqualified persons, or attempts at self-treatment, are dangerous.

Commercialized prostitution is the greatest reservoir of venereal disease. The menace of this disease, dispensing racket to public health and decency cannot be reduced by any system of "regulation." Sound public health practice demands that this vicious racket be suppressed vigorously.

The venereal disease problem Dr. Hershey maintained, is a challenge to the government, a challenge to parents and teachers, and a challenge to every individual. Only through knowledge and through the lifting of the veil of secrecy from discussion of syphilis, can the public be brought to a realization that this disease must be stamped out before it causes the people of this continent irreparable harm.

There was a long discussion of the labor question for the coming season, also the question of Japanese help was discussed. There was only one resolution passed, and that was to the effect that Mr. Rutherford and the Okanagan and Mainline Security Committee were to be complimented on the way they stopped the infiltration of Japanese into this valley.

V. R. McDonagh was again elected to do the auditing.

The December meeting of the Winfield Women's Institute was held in the Community Hall on Friday, December 4th, with a small attendance.

Arrangements were made for the annual treat for the school children of the district at Christmas concert, and the children are at present canvassing the district for funds. Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. T. Duggan and Mrs. Elliott were appointed the buying committee.

A report of donations to the Red Cross consisted of eighteen boxes of prunes forwarded to Kelowna for making jam, and two hundred pounds of honey.

Mrs. Pollard and Miss Pamela left on Saturday for Vancouver, and they will remain for a few days visit with relatives at Enderby.

REDS EDGED BY ARMY IN THRILLER

Local Basketeers Lose 29-37 at Vernon With Weakened Team — Out For Revenge This Saturday at Kelowna Scout Hall

Kelowna Reds braved the ice and snow to travel last Saturday night to Vernon, where they lost another tough game to the Senior "B" 110 B.T.C. champs by a score of 29-37.

The Kelowna basket flashes, lacking three of their regulars in the B.C. team, the former sinking 10 points, with Turrik just falling to get into double figures.

Once again it was the Army's height and weight that enabled them to crash through for an eight point lead in the third stanza.

"Red" Ryan and "Fide Away" Turrik were again outstanding for the B.T.C., the former sinking 10 points, with Turrik just falling to get into double figures.

For the Reds, Conway was the chief point-getter with ten markers, and Fosterson was second with nine points.

This Saturday night, at the Kelowna Scout Hall, a return engagement will be staged, and the Reds will be all out for their first win against Vernon. The boys are improving with every game and with a full squad out should force their older rivals every step of the way.

There was a very good attendance at last Monday's Rally. We had a message carrying competition, which was quite closely contested, some skipping, relay races and folk dancing. Dorothy Marty and Wilma Badley passed the signalling test and completed their Second Class. P.L. Jane Weddell were passed by the examiner for the Thrift test and the Child Nurse Proficiency test. We welcomed Audrey McQuire as a recruit to the Company.

The Bluebirds were again first with 87 points, the Larks second with 59 points, and the Nightingales third with 55.

Some of the garments for the Lark Bushbough Competition were handed in last Monday—and very nicely done, too. Get busy and have everything finished to hand in at latest next Monday.

Our Sincere THANKS

SINCE 1893 The Kelowna Saw Mill Co. Ltd. has endeavored to provide the Kelowna district with an efficient, friendly service in keeping with the needs of the growing community. We pride ourselves that we have done so.

After nearly fifty years of service to the community, during which time we have enjoyed the friendship and patronage of a large section of the public, we have relinquished our control of the company to S. M. Simpson Ltd.

As we conclude our business relationships with our former patrons we desire to express to them our deep appreciation of their patronage, their friendly understanding of our problems and their loyalty and consideration in those difficult times through which we have all passed during the past half century. Business relationships can be cold and matter-of-fact, we are happy that ours were built on a firmer foundation—friendship and service. We extend to our patrons our appreciation of their support, the memory of which we will treasure.

We hope, too, that in the future the same cordial relationships will exist between our former patrons and the new owners. We are confident that the same spirit of goodwill and co-operation upon which the business was built will continue to exist for the mutual benefit of the new owners and the lumber consumers of this district.

For Re-Election

During the past three years many measures have been taken to safeguard the health of the citizens of Kelowna. As Chairman of the Health Department of the City Council, I desire to express to the Kelowna citizens my appreciation of the ready co-operation they gave my department in all its endeavors. Whether elected or not for another term on the City Council, I sincerely desire to convey my appreciation to the people of this city. Without their willing co-operation these measures could not have been made effective.

I am again permitting my name to stand for election to the City Council and, should I be elected, I will continue to work towards making Kelowna a city attractive to visitors and a healthy place to reside. A healthy city means an attractive, happy, progressive city.

phasizes. The campaign must be sustained, right across Canada, in every household, hotel and restaurant, from day to day for the duration of the war.

Housewives are the key people in this collection. They are asked to take waste fats and bones to their meat dealer. In any community where collection systems of fats and bones is already in operation, either through municipal collection or sponsored by a local voluntary salvage committee, housewives can continue to dispose of fats and bones through such a system.

The Canadian meat dealers, as their contribution, have undertaken to accept salvaged fats and bones at their stores, and to see that they are forwarded to the renderers and meat packers for the recovery of vital glycerine for explosives and other materials essential for war industries. Renderers and packers likewise have promised their co-operation in making the campaign a success.

Every ounce of dripping, every morsel of scrap fat, every bone, green or dry, must be saved.

Meat dealers will pay from four to 4½ cents per pound for dripping fat.

DANGER FROM AIR RAIDS IS NOT OVER

A.R.P. Instructors From Coast Stress Need For Efficient Corps in Kelowna as Raids Expected

Chief Warden R. Whillits reports that approximately fifty A.R.P. wardens attended all lectures and demonstrations given by the provincial instructors at the Kelowna Elementary School last week. This hundred per cent attendance brought high commendation from Inspector Moodie, who was in charge of the A.R.P. Instructors School.

The lectures were of a high standard, and were ably presented by the four instructors.

All those taking the course successfully passed their examinations at the conclusion of the school on Saturday and are now fully capable of handling any emergency that may arise.

The Chief Warden stressed that the Coast instructors fully believed that there was still a strong possibility of air raids both at the Coast and in the Interior next year. People have been lulled into a false sense of security by events in Alaska and the South Pacific, he continued, and there is no ground for such optimism. On the contrary, authorities feel that the danger is more imminent at present than at any time in the past.

HARRY BLACK IN FIELD FOR REEVE

President of Penticton Board of Trade Announces That He Will Seek Office at Coming Penticton Election

Three new candidates entered the municipal election lists at Penticton last week. One will stand for Reeve. J. H. "Harry" Black, President of the Board of Trade, P. F. Erout, manager of the Penticton branch of the Dominion Cannery, Western, Ltd., and Neil McKernan, manager of the Hub Recreations, have definitely signified their intention of running for municipal office.

Mr. Black was the first to place his hat in the ring for the chief municipal post. He consented to do this after Reeve R. J. McDougall re-affirmed his decision not to seek re-election, and he made known his position before a citizens' committee meeting last week.

Another possibility for the chief executive's chair is R. "Bob" Lyon. He stated on Thursday, "I am still thinking about it," and admitted that he had obtained his nomination papers "just to look them over." He indicated that he would give his decision this week.

The names of three members of the present Council, J. W. Johnson, Bruce Cousins and H. S. Kenyon, have also been mentioned lately as possibilities for the reeveship. However, a quick check-up of all three brought speedy and emphatic denials.

There are now four candidates for the two Council seats which are to be filled. The present incumbents, Councillors J. W. Johnson and Jack Ellis, have stated that they will be running again. They will be opposed by at least P. F. Erout and Neil McKernan.

For the School Board, Chairman H. Barnard and Trustee Mrs. C. C. Macdonald are both up for re-election. As yet there has been no definite word of competitors in this field.

He could tell you how Italian tanks scattered in Libya; how Sicily looked by the light of flare bombs; how the Rhine looked for cover in a half-dozen European countries. He's a member of an R.C.A.F. air crew—those much travelled "fighting comrades of the skies."

Trained in Canada—R.C.A.F. air crews take the world in their stride. Smooth-working attack teams—bomber and fighter pilots, Navigators, Bombardiers, Gunners, Wireless Operators—ready for action on any front. They seek out and destroy the foe wherever he can be found. After victory these keen young Canadians will lead the way to a bright new world. Our future is in their hands. Their future is in the skies.

Young men with a taste for adventure—and a yen to pin Hitler's ears back—have a new career awaiting them in R.C.A.F. air crews. R.C.A.F. training in Canada is expanding steadily. More planes, more schools, more instructors are now available. At present applications are being accepted for air crew at R.C.A.F. Recruiting Centres throughout Canada.

If you are physically fit, mentally alert, over 17½ and not yet 33, you are eligible. If you are over 33, but have exceptional qualifications, you may still be considered. Lack of formal education is no longer a bar to enlistment.

WOMEN TOO—join what may be the Canadian women full time job in the R.C.A.F. Women's Division, recruiting men for air crew duties. Records are needed, age 18 to 40, physically fit, with at least High School entrance. Many useful and fascinating jobs await you. No experience needed. The Air Force will train you quickly to take your place with Canada's airwomen. Full information at any R.C.A.F. Recruiting Centre or write address below for booklet.

LOWER PRICES
ANNOUNCED BY OTTAWA

Tea, Coffee, Oranges and Milk
Prices Are Reduced by Operation of Government Bonus

Reductions in the price of tea, coffee, milk and oranges were announced last week by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board at Ottawa. Reductions of ten cents per pound on tea and four cents per pound on coffee came into effect on Monday, and oranges are reduced approximately six cents a dozen for medium sizes. Milk is to be reduced two cents per quart, but this will not be effective until later in the month. The reductions are made possible by payment of a bonus to distributors and stores to cover the loss in returns resulting from lower prices to the consumer. It is estimated that the plan will cost Canada $40,000,000 yearly. It is aimed at strengthening the price ceiling, which was cracking under the pressure of scarcity of goods and increasing buying power throughout the country. It is reckoned that the price reductions will reduce the budget of the average Canadian family by approximately $1.35 per month, and will slow down an increase in the cost of living index.

KELOWNA MAN

INJURED IN BAD CAR SMASH

Harold Miller Escapes Serious
Injury When Auto Leaves
Highway Near Jones' Flats

Harold Miller, truck inspector, Kelowna, and two residents of Summerland narrowly escaped death on Friday night November 27, when the sedan in which they were travelling left the Okanagan Highway two miles north of Summerland and turned over several times as it hurtled down the steep bank.

The occupants of the car were H. P. Mahler, of the Summerland Evaporating Company, who sustained a broken shoulder blade, cuts, bruises and shock; Walter Wright, manager of the Summerland branch of the Bank of Montreal, face and head injuries, cuts and shock; Harold Miller, leg injury and bruises.

Mr. Mahler had arranged to drive Mr. Miller to the Kelowna-West bank ferry, and had invited Mr. Wright to accompany them. It was a moonlight night, with a few flecks of snow on the ground, and the car was frosty. Mahler drove his own car, with Wright along with him in the front seat, while Miller was in the rear.

When the car left the road at a point about a mile north of Jones' Flats, it evidently went end over end and then started to roll down the hill. One door flew open and Wright was thrown out, but the other men were held in the car. Just what caused the accident is not known. Afterwards, a front tire was found to be blown out, but it is not known if this or the icy, frosty road surface caused the mishap.

Miller, who suffered slighter injuries than the others, was able to hobble back along the road about a mile and a half to E. Brighton's house, only to find that there was no phone there with which to summon medical aid. Next he went to the residence of J. Wood, but the family was away. Yet, another neighbor, J. Glazer, had no phone, but he drove to another house, where there was a phone, and Dr. F. W. Andrew was contacted.

Dr. Andrew went out immediately but, as there was no one at the spot, he could not see the car over the bank on his way north. He drove a considerable distance past and had to return, and on the way back he saw the wrecked car.

Members of the local unit of Pacific Coast Rangers, who had been attending a lecture on first aid, gave valuable assistance, taking with them a stretcher, on which Wright was put, who had suffered a badly strained back in addition to his other injuries, and he was taken to the Summerland Hospital together with Mahler.

Both men suffered severely as the result of over an hour's exposure in the frosty night air on the cold ground, owing to the chain of circumstances that delayed the securing of help.

Although badly wrecked, apparently the car is not beyond repair.

Tunis

Battle For North Africa Recalls Ancient Carthage

(By CHARLES ROBERTSON)

The bombing of Tunis, like many other Mediterranean ports, will recall many old memories to those who have had the pleasure of exploring them. While visiting at the Canadian Legion club rooms, Kelowna, on the morning of Armistice Day, I heard a Legionnaire from Wenatchee sing that rather modern song, "America, My Home, Sweet Home." Since then it has occurred to me that young American soldiers now setting foot in foreign lands and feeling far from home, may possibly be singing or humming the song I heard that day. If not, some may be prompted to do so by circumstances or by environment.

Those landing in the city of Tunis and at nearby ancient Carthage will find much to interest them, and at least there is one little spot which should be sacred to every American heart, and in fact to all who speak the English tongue. Should devastating bombs not get ahead of them and their footsteps in Tunis, they may find a tombstone bearing the words, "In memory of John Howard Payne, author of 'Home, Sweet Home'."

For a time Payne led an American life in that city, where he died and was buried. Later, his body was exhumed and taken back to the land of his birth. It is an ironic fact that the author of that beautiful song, a born wanderer, never really had a home.

During the First Great War my ship on one occasion took me to the port of Tunis, and I met an elderly English gentleman, Mr. Lytle, who had resided there for quarter of a century as a missionary to the Arabs. During my conversation with him, he very kindly offered to accompany me. A few days later, with a small party from the ship, we took advantage of his kind offer, and went on a journey, and he very kindly offered to accompany me.

A few days later, with a small party from the ship, we took advantage of his kind offer, and went on a journey, and he very kindly offered to accompany me.

Carthage had many glories and many tribulations. At this day very little remains of the Phoenician civilization. As everyone knows, it fell to the Roman Empire and was destroyed about the beginning of the Christian era. The merchant fleets of that then great maritime power were also blockaded and destroyed in the harbor there, and with the ships also passed their world trade and the art of navigation.

Historians tell us that the ships of Carthage made voyages circumnavigating the "African" continent and bringing back the gold and spices and some one mentioned peacocks, apes and ivory, of the Ophir to their mother ports, to Tyre and Sidon. If their writings are correct, about a thousand years would have elapsed before that sea route was again taken by adventurers like Vasco da Gama and his contemporaries.

Of the Roman occupancy and culture quite a lot is known, but of course there is little or nothing standing above the general surface of the terrain. Some standing columns can still be seen in subterranean chambers, and many large duted columns, with their bases and capitals, have been gathered into a large amphitheatre, some of them

CPL. D. TAYLOR LECTURES ON CROWD PANIC

Stresses Danger of Acute Fear in Air Raids and Necessity of Control

Friday evening's sessions of the A.R.P. school of instruction were opened with an address by Cpl. D. W. Taylor, who analyzed the reactions of a crowd, terrified and panic-stricken. He recounted numerous incidents indicating how serious a panic can be, and he urged that A.R.P. wardens must take the lead in getting a crowd over the physiological moment, if disaster should ever occur.

The speaker pointed out that children can be more easily controlled than adults. In outlining an advisable course of action to be followed in case of a raid, he emphasized that if the children are in school, they are under the absolute control of the principal, and it is the duty of the principal to decide what course of action must be followed.

If planes are in sight, the children must be taken into the school basement, as generally this is the safest place. If the children should be out on the grounds when the planes are sighted, they should be ordered to lie flat until danger has passed.

Cpl. Taylor outlined the duties of the Auxiliary Police and explained to his audience the difference between "power" and "rights." He said that actually the police are to protect people against themselves. Inspector Moodie gave a detailed account of the blackout and communication systems that have been organized in B.C., and said that general communication is one of the most important steps toward civilian protection.

Blackouts He told the audience that the present set-up allows for the contact of all stations throughout B.C. A "blackout" is the most dramatic form of air raid precaution used, and he pointed out that blackouts and air raid warnings must not be confused. "Blackouts are useful," he said, "because they confuse the enemy and make it impossible for direct targets to be located."

Practice blackouts are of very little value and are primarily the responsibility of the individual. In B.C. there are two types of blackout, the "precautionary" and the "imminent danger." During precautionary blackouts traffic may proceed slowly, but in an imminent danger blackout all traffic is halted. B.C. is divided into four blackout areas, and Kelowna is in Area No. 1. In this way all areas, one area, or a combination of areas can be ordered to blackout as the necessity arises.

Inspector Moodie stated that, in case of danger, there may be a blackout and radio silence, or either of these two, but before blackouts are called, the key stations will broadcast a brief transcribed announcement. He described the regulations governing coastal "dim-outs" as practised in Victoria.

The speaker warned the group that, if they were to be successful A.R.P. wardens, they must use plenty of common sense and put some systematic study into the A.R.P. course. A.R.P. wardens must be prepared to face some pretty grim moments when on duty, he said.

Duties of Wardens Senior Instructor F. C. Bass outlined some of the duties that form part of the A.R.P. warden's work, and he was emphatic in stating that a warden must have a very extensive knowledge of the houses and people in his district. To be effective, blackouts must be complete, but it is no use putting the lights out. Lights must be arranged so that they are shaded but so that the people can continue their activities.

In danger the warden must decide the course of action which he will follow according to the amount of damage done, and the majority must be given precedence over the individual. The warden must look after his best and must leave first-aiding to the firemen and first aid to the ambulance crews. The warden is the last man to leave the area and is the first to arrive. Before leaving, he must account for every man, woman and child in his district, and the biggest job of the warden is to save life.

Concluding his address, Mr. Bass gave detailed directions concerning the use of the air raid warden's reports.

A.F. eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Sharpe, Victoria, formerly of Kelowna and Rutland. Rev. F. Chilton, officiated at the ceremony in Knox Presbyterian Church, Victoria, where the bride's parents had been married twenty-seven years ago, and L. Beautiful arrangements of white flowers decorated the church.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin gown cut on princess lines with long tapering sleeves and a long collar. A halo edged with orange blossoms held her silk-embroidered veil which fell to the hem of her gown. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and white carnations showered with Heather.

The bride's only attendant was Miss Marie Waggett, who wore a floor length gown of blue net, with two gardenias in her hair, and carried a colonial bouquet of white and pink carnations.

Victor Haddock, Vancouver, was the groomsmen, and the ushers were Robert W. Curtis and Kenneth W. Martin.

During the signing of the register, Miss Lois Lovell sang "Because."

A small reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where a large crowd of guests, baskets of chrysanthemums to receive the guests.

Mrs. Curtis, who assisted in receiving, wore a jacket frock of pink lace and net, while Mrs. Sharpe was in olive green. Both ensembles were offset by corsages of pink carnations.

The bride's cake centred the supper table, which was daintily arranged.

For travelling the bride chose a sky blue dress with navy accessories and a beige top coat, with a corsage of pin roses.

A.C.2 Sharpe was born in Kelowna and lived in the Rutland district for over fifteen years, moving from Kelowna to Victoria in 1920.

Attendance at the meeting on Monday continued good though several leaders were absent due to the necessity of waiting for an exam the next day. A visitor to the meeting was E. T. Money, of Langley.

Mr. Money had some words of encouragement for the Troop, and told the boys of some of the experiences and difficulties of the Troop in its first year. Led by Assistant Scoutmaster Jim Duncan, the boys gave Mr. Money three rousing cheers and a "tiger" in appreciation of his visit.

The Rutland Boy Scout Troop has had a continuous existence of twenty-two years, without a break other than the annual lay-off during the busy fruit season. When first Seals organized the Troop had three patrols, the Foxes, Kangaroos and Beavers. The Troop still has a Fox and Beaver patrol.

Many tenderfoot tests were passed at last Monday's meeting, and several of the new recruits are nearly through their tests for this badge.

Lookie—Lookie COOKIES!

Youngsters love big, soft, puffy drop cookies—especially with little after school. And chances are older folks go for them, too—any size, shape or kind. Cookies pack easily in box lunches, are delightful to serve when guests drop in, and are tasty for just plain munching.

So, how's your cookie supply? We think the recipe given below is a tempter—a real goshawny special and a treat for your favorite cookie jar. Why not try it today?

PRALINE BUTTER PUFFS

(They magically disappear)

1 1/4 cups flour 1/4 cup white sugar
1/4 cup brown sugar 1/4 cup finely chopped pecans or walnuts
1 egg, well beaten 1/4 cup shortening
1/4 cup shortening Powdered sugar

Sift flour, measure; add again with brown sugar and salt. Cream shortening, add flour mixture gradually. Melt white sugar in heavy frying pan, heating until golden brown, stirring constantly. Add nut meats; pour into well-greased dish pan (9x12 1/2x2). When baked, crush fine with rolling pin. Add to cookie dough, mixing thoroughly. Form dough into small balls. Bake in preheated hot oven (400° F.) for 15 minutes or until done. Remove from oven; cool about 3 minutes, roll in powdered sugar. When cold roll again in powdered sugar. Makes 3 dozen cookies, 1/2-inch in diameter.

head." He voiced the opinion that, if it were permitted to be shot, there would be little short of a slaughter, as they are very easy to hit.

Inspector S. F. M. Moodie, of the Provincial Police and attached to the A.R.P. organization, told the crowd that every place in British Columbia had desperate need of an A.R.P. organization. He urged every person either to join it or give it the almost support. One hundred and fifty local organizations were now functioning in the province, he stated.

"To say 'It couldn't happen here' is absolute nonsense," Inspector Moodie stated. "The United States has learned modesty in the last year. They no longer think that Japan is going to be a pushover, or that the American soldier can take on ten Japanese whenever he likes and trim them."

Inspector Moodie stated that the civilian population must learn to protect itself. "When the danger to life and property does come, the Army will be much too busy elsewhere, protecting the lives of civilians, to fight fire. The A.R.P. organization is simply to supplement these vital civilian services, the police, the fire brigade, medical assistance."

W. Spear, President of the Kelowna Rod and Gun Club, acted as chairman. He told the A.R.P. Chief Warden, introduced Inspector Moodie.

Eleven valuable prizes were raffled during the evening. Eight sure winners were holders of lucky membership tickets, while the remaining three were special raffles.

The winners in the membership draw were: Yukon sleeping bag, Cliff Davies; fly rod, J. L. Marshall, Vancouver; trolling rod, Ian MacLaren; trolling reel, Billie Smith; tackle boxes, George Porter, F. J. Day, F. Williams and W. Spear.

FRU-TEA MARKS FIRST ANNIVERSARY

Apple Drink Introduced to Public One Year Ago—Finding Ready Acceptance

Fru-tea, the local beverage made from apples, this week marks the first anniversary of its introduction to the general public, and on its first birthday gives promise of developing into a healthy youngster.

During the past few months Reliance Fruit Products has been unable to keep pace with the flow of orders, so satisfactory has been the demand.

Fru-tea, apparently, has found ready and growing public acceptance and is now to be found on the shelves of most grocery stores. Repeat orders indicate that merchants have discovered that today's sales are not merely "trials" but fountain from those persons who have tried it and have found it satisfactory.

Undoubtedly the present tea and coffee situation has contributed to the success of this substitute drink, but it is also known that it now stands on its own merits in many quarters.

The rationing of tea and coffee has induced many housewives to try a combination of Fru-tea and tea or coffee. Fru-tea, it is found, is a combination of Fru-tea and tea or coffee. Fru-tea, it is found, is a combination of Fru-tea and tea or coffee.

The company is now finding a considerable outlet for Fru-tea in bulk to companies which use it as drinks. Through this source and retail outlets, the company expects to increase its sales considerably during the next year.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Young, New Westminster, are guests of the Royal Anne Hotel this week.

The raffles were conducted by Stan Duggan, and the tickets were drawn by Miss Pat Johnson.

4 INSPECTOR MOODIE

And it was stated that the public owe moral support to the A.R.P. wardens.

Cpl. D. W. Taylor, presented "a new angle on A.R.P." to the class of a hundred people from the local A.R.P. personnel who attended the sessions on Thursday evening. He recalled the tragedy of France, and pointed out the futility of vacating the home in an emergency.

He said that it is the work of the A.R.P. wardens to prevent panic, which is the very thing that the enemy are trying to create, and he appealed to the group to do all in their power, in case of a raid, to keep a panic.

Inspector Bass dealt with the subject of local organization and described the Vancouver set-up. Vancouver has been divided into six districts, the largest containing 80,000 people and the smallest, 20,000. In endeavoring to supply adequate protection, the organization has quarters complicate arrangements, and he pointed out that there was a further difficulty in that, in the case of daylight raids, the organization would be for from the zones. To combat this, he stated that already nine thousand Vancouver women are taking a strenuous training so that they will be prepared to do their A.R.P. duty, if the emergency should arise.

One of the points that was emphasized was that air raid warnings will never be given for tests. When the signal is heard over the radio, it means that there is every reason to believe that the enemy is approaching.

Reference was made in the lecture to mobile A.R.P. groups. These groups are so equipped that they can move quickly and efficiently to whichever district requires aid. For instance, they can be called to Esquimalt, Victoria or Oak Bay, and each group is as self-supporting as possible. It was suggested that this type of organization could be developed efficiently in Kelowna.

The various B.C.F.G.A. locals are now being asked to formulate their own policies on this matter.

The basis of the whole scheme is a letter sent by Austin Taylor to the B.C.F.G.A. representatives, which reads:

Confirming our conversation of this morning, this is to advise that the British Columbia Security Commission will approve of temporary labor being employed and your operate on its own.

The statement also said: "They will at all times request representation from the town and municipalities within their boundaries in order that the decision and wishes of the municipalities be given full recognition." As far as can be ascertained, no attempt has yet been made to secure such representation from the municipalities.

In his letter to the B.C.F.G.A. representatives, Mr. Taylor pointed out that "Japanese labor will not necessarily be kept available for your requirements if year-round employment is offered elsewhere to the Japanese."

Originally the B.C. Security Commission adopted the stand that Japanese could not be used in the Okanagan on a temporary basis. Permanent settlement for the duration was what was desired and desired.

It is understood that this labor being temporary, that you will provide transportation from the locations from which they are solicited and return transportation. The B.C. Security Commission will co-operate through its supervisors in these respective areas, and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police will co-operate as to accompanying the Japanese to and from the areas concerned, and seeing that they are returned to their respective locations at the end of each harvest season.

The above is based on the understanding that the committees or municipalities in which this labor is required are agreeable to this employment.

Mr. DeBrisay refused to comment as to the number of Japanese who would be required during the harvest season. He pointed out that the number depends entirely upon the attitude of the various locals.

In the meantime, the northern districts had secured on the same basis some assistance from Japanese settlement along the Fraser and Mainline.

It is also understood that you will provide adequate housing accommodation for those employed, and pay the going farm and orchard wage.
